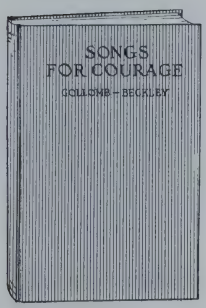
SONGS FOR COURAGE

BY ZOË BECKLEY AND JOSEPH GOLLOMB.



For those to whom life has dealt heavy blows there could be no better tonic than "Songs for Courage." It is just the sort of message for one's own heart, or to pass along to a friend. Nothing is so contagious as courage; and here two of the bravest spirits, of the brightest intellects, unite in this one great adjuration: Take hope!

In verse and in prose; gay, grave, majestic, but always heart-stirring because culled from living truth—resolute songs of souls who will not accept defeat—they bid us be of good cheer. "Songs for Courage" is a trumpet-call for the quickening of every soul to gather hope and strength from the experience of others.

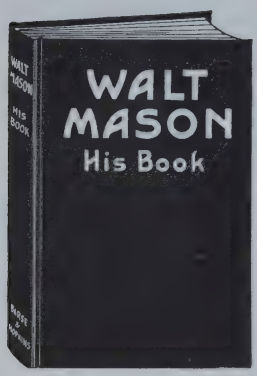
WALT MASON

HIS BOOK

With an introduction by Irvin S. Cobb



Arthur Conan Doyle:
"It is a work of high individuality, full of raciness, wit and sense."

Geo. Ade:
"Walt Mason is the High Priest of Horse Sense."

Hon. Champ Clark:
"We need more of this kind of philosophy. Better to sing a jubilante than a miserere."

Elbert Hubbard:
"His prose poems exercise your liver by making you laugh. His wit bubbles and gurgles like a Kansas creek where the bullfrogs gambol."

Walt Mason's prose poetry is perhaps the most widely read of contemporary writers. It has appeared in the leading magazines and newspapers throughout the country. William Allen White summarizes his work aptly in saying:

"How many millions of people are cheered year by year as they turn every day to those quaint verses! Here is a man doing a man's work in the world, making life brighter and more cheerful and more sensible in this vale of tears. Millions in money could do no more—if as much—as this man does at his day's work."

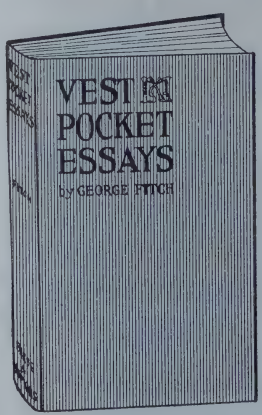
VEST POCKET ESSAYS

BY GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Siwash," etc.



"Vest pocket Essays" are short talks—about four hundred words each—on miscellaneous subjects. "From Hope to Hash," "From Cabbages to Kings." Fitch's humor is good-natured, yet there is a wealth of meaning behind his fun. It is above all things a philosophic humor, though he is never cynically smart, and when he takes certain institutions to task he does it in a kindly manner. His is a quiet, dry, droll humor—to be consumed in leisurely fashion, rolled under the tongue and chuckled over.

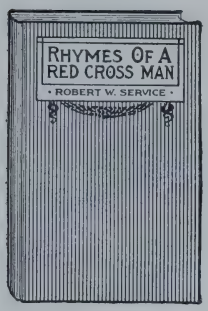
RHYMES OF A RED CROSS MAN



Cloth

BY ROBERT W. SERVICE.

Humor and Pathos of the Great War told in verses which will live after the story of the conflict is but a legend. Verses which wedge the human side of the war into the hearts of people.

Flexible Leather

These vivid pen pictures of the titanic struggle in Europe, written amid the din and roar of the cannon, tell the story of the human side of this great war in the most inspired, straightforward, and powerful verses that have yet been contributed. Mr. Witter Bynner, literary critic of "The Dial," aptly concludes:

> "Detail after detail of life at the front takes its place in the various narratives, adding touches of excitement, pathos, terror, tenderness, or humor, and in the end imbuing this particular reader with a closer sense of life in the Great War than any correspondent, novelist, or poet has yet given him—making it so natural, straightforward, first-hand, vibrant, that if you are like me you will close the book with the painful silence in the ears that follows great sound and the flush in the head that comes from the sight of broken bodies and the squeeze in the throat that comes in the presence of honest human emotion. It is not a criticism from without, but a cry from within—dignifying even 'Tipperary.' We have been inquiring for the poetry of the War. In my judgment, here it is."

Startingly accurate! You read it for your own birthday and are astonished! You read it for your family or friends, and you wonder what there is in Astrology that gets so close to the truth. For an evening's entertainment it is a novelty that you will be quick to appreciate. If conversation lags, read aloud one or two of the horoscopes, and you'll be busy the rest of the evening.

NOVELS

DION AND THE SIBYLS. By Miles Keon. This famous novel of the time of Christ is in the front rank of the Messianic stories; and while all thoughtful persons will admit its equality with Ben Hur, a few will claim for it supriority. Besides the young Greek hero, Paulus, and his sister, Agatha, the romances of whose lives run like thin, golden threads through the darker strands of earthly wars and court intrigues in the Roman Empire, and converge to a chastened happiness under the divine light of the world's Redeemer, we meet the great Emperor Augustus in his old age, and many of the scholars and philosophers to whom he delighted to listen.

FORGIVE AND FORGET. By Ernst Lingen. A wholesome, engrossing love story. Three men love the same girl, and the resultant tangles and heartburnings may readily be fancied. It is a graphic description of what nobility of soul and unfaltering devotion can endure. The author portrays human nature to perfection and knows the impulses of the human heart.

TEMPEST OF THE HEART, THE. By Mary Agatha Gray. A tale of a monk who leaves his monastery and afterwards returns. The author handles his subject with knowledge and reverence.

TURN OF THE TIDE, THE. By Mary Agatha Gray. A powerful and pathetic love story of an English fishing-village, with just enough smuggling to give it tang.

By Henri Barbusse

Author of UNDER FIRE.

Translated from the 100th French edition, with an introduction by Edward J. O'Brien. Barbusse, who has given us one of the best books of the war, has in this tremendous novel depicted that other great human struggle, the never ceasing war waged between the sexes. $1.50

THE GILDED MAN

(A Romance of the Andes)

By Clifford Smyth

Introduction by Richard LeGallienne.

An arresting story of mystery, love, and adventure and the search for hidden treasure, based on the famous legend of the Eldorado. A striking plot of absorbing love interest combined with a genial and soothing humor. Gertrude Atherton says: "It is so well done—starting with a bang and ending with a crash—that the harassed public should receive it with gratitude." $1.50

FREE AND OTHER STORIES

By Theodore Dreiser

This is the first volume of short stories by the man Arnold Bennett calls America's most distinguished author. CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

IN THE MIDST OF LIFE.

By Ambrose Bierce.

Ambrose Bierce is considered by such authorities as Gertrude Atherton, Wm. Marion Reedy, Brander Matthews, Joel Chandler Harris, Conan Doyle, Arthur Machen, Elbert Hubbard, Owen Wister, etc. one of the greatest writers of American fiction. "Can Such Things be?" and "In The Midst of Life" are collections of mystery and war stories that combine the ingenuity of Conan Doyle, the artistry of Poe and the vivacity of O. Henry. Just the books for the boys at the front and for the mothers and fathers back of the firing line. $1.50 each

MARIE GRUBBE.

By Jens Peter Jacobsen.

George Brandes calls this book the greatest tour de force in Danish literature. It is a rattling historical romance; the story of a woman who loved for the sake of having her love returned; the story of the wife of the son of King Frederik of Denmark during the siege of Copenhagen (1658-60) $1.50

THE PRESTONS

By Mary Heaton Vorse

This is the story of the every-day life of an average American family, as told by a typical American mother, a story of sons, daughters, aunts, sisters, sweethearts and friends, so real that it might have been your diary or mine. Now it is Jimmy, the boyish boy, the youngest of the family, who holds the centre of the stage with his amusing pranks, now it is his sister Edith, a girl of real flesh and blood at the "hard-shelled" age, and then again it is his older brother Osborn, the college "man". It is a pleasant book but instructive, too, with all the problems that domestic life presents. Read it and see yourselves and your children and the life they live and you live with them reproduced in print. Give it to your children and they will recognize themselves in it. . . . $1.50

MEN IN WAR.

By Andreas Latzko.

The Infamy of the Teutons—The Revelations of an Austrian Officer—Men in War will unquestionably rank with the greatest expressions wrung from the human soul by these years of agony and horror. One hopes that every lover of democracy and peace may read it."—The Boston Transcript.

$1.50

A FAMILY OF NOBLEMEN.

By M. Y. Saltykov. (Shchedrin).

"The story must be read. It has rich life in it and a magnificent sincerity."
—New Republic.

"Russia has produced few novels of a greater psychological depth and a more intimate realism."—The Bookman $1.50

CAPEL SION

MY OWN PEOPLE

By Caradoc Evans.

Two books of short stories describing with striking originality and force, the life of the Welsh communities. The author is himself a Welshman and he reproduces in this book, in quaint Welsh dialect, a world little known but real and vivid, by no means all virtuous, yet well worth knowing. Each story ends with as vigorous a punch as the tales of O. Henry. . . $1.50 each.

THE GREAT MODERN FRENCH STORIES.

MY UNCLE BENJAMIN.
By Claude Tillier.

AMERICANIZED SOCIALISM.
A Yankee's View of Capitalism.
By James MacKaye.

This book, by the author of "The Economy of Happiness", "The Politics of Utility", "The Happiness of Nations" etc. is the first book of Socialism published in this country, which endeavors to associate Americanism with Socialism, instead of trying to explain Socialism to Americans in the terms of Marx, Engels Kautsky, Bebel etc. The book shows in clear, readable style, that Socialism is a true American ideal. The comparison is drawn between the body slavery of Lincoln's day and the wage slavery of today, and the frequent quotations from Lincoln make the book one that will likely be read by more red-blooded Americans than any book on Socialism that has yet appeared. $1.00

UTOPIA OF USURERS.

THE PENGUIN SERIES

The new Penguin Series will comprise works of high literary merit that have never before been published in book form. The books are tastefully bound in gay-colored boards, with white vellum backs and paper labels. The paper used in this series is of a superior quality, the type large, specially set and printed, the margins wide, and the general format dainty and attractive. The following four volumes have already appeared. Three or four new titles will be added in the spring.

I. GABRIELLA DE BERGERAC

By Henry James.

The first issue in book form of what is undoubtedly the finest novel of Henry James' early period, written in simple, lucid style. This volume will be a pleasant surprise to all lovers of the work of Henry James and will serve as an introduction to his later style. $1.25

II. KARMA

By Lafcadio Hearn.

A collection of stories, sketches and essays of Lafcadio Hearn never before published in book form. The first story is autobiographical, giving the author's account of his own love. The essays on China and Japan are peculiarly timely. They reveal Hearn not only as a poet of the Japanese and Chinese soul, but as a sound thinker on the racial and political problems of the Far East in their relation to Europe. $1.25

III. JAPANESE FAIRY TALES.

By Lafcadio Hearn.

A collection of delightful children's stories for children that will appeal also to grown-ups. $1.25

IV. IOLANTHE'S WEDDING

By Hermann Sudermann

Translated by Adele Seltzer

A love story by the author of "The Song of Songs." It is a deligtful novel, ranking with the best works of Sudermann, and it has gone through numerous editions in the original. Like most of the artistic creations of this novelist it is full of love interest and of human interest, and though quite different in theme, the story transports the reader to that broad mundane atmosphere which is the spicific quality of "The Song of Songs" and which has won hundreds of thousands of readers for that novel. "Iolanthe's Wedding" has never before been published in book form and it is now made accessible to the American public for the first time in a translation that reproduces in full the exquisite style of the original. $1.25

Ambulancing on the French Front

By Edward Coyle

Here is a collection of intensely interesting episodes related by a Young American who served as a volunteer with the French Army—Red Cross Division. His book is to the field of mercy what those of Empey, Holmes and Peat have been in describing the vicissitudes of army life. The author spent ten months in ambulance work on the Verdun firing line. What he saw and did is recounted with most graphic clearness. This book contains many illustrations photographed on the spot showing with vivid accuracy the terrors of rescue work under the fire of the big guns.

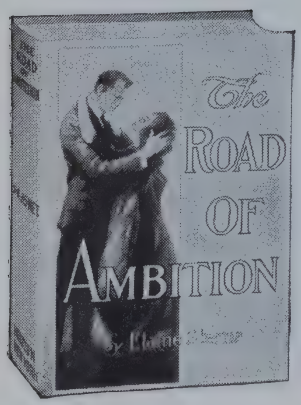
The Road of Ambition

A Novel by ELAINE STERNE



The story of a man on the rungs of the ladder coming up from beneath

This is a Man's Book
—Likewise a Woman's Book

New to the fiction field this author brings into it a manner of speech and metaphor both daring and original.

Aspiration is the keynote of this magnificent story, wherein the "Big Bill" of today steps dripping from the crucible of endeavor into the highway of attainment. It is along this road where the "Eye-tooth" cuts through and vision takes hold—the road of inspiration, contact, consummation. Only the Super-man may enter castles along this guarded road, marked—"Private—No Thoroughfare!"

UNCLE BILL'S LETTERS TO HIS NIECE

By RAY BROWN

Here's as gay a little gift as any girl could wish. Bright sparkling and joyous—letters from a matter-of-fact old uncle who talks to his young niece straight from the shoulder, exactly as he might to a boy.

Uncle Bill gives inside facts about moonlight, becomes violent over athletics, taboos snobbery, takes a fling at heredity, and touches up a few complexions.

The result is extravagantly and deliciously funny—Just the Book for an Ingenue.

A Thousand Ways to Please a Husband

—WITH BETTINA'S BEST RECIPES

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
and
HELEN COWLES LE CRON

With Decorations in Color
By ELIZABETH COLBORNE

The most unique kitchen and household compendium ever published —The Romance of Cookery and the Inspiration of Housekeeping—for two people in particular, and small families in general.

This volume is not the usual dull plodding kitchen cook book made up from "collected" recipes and enlivened by photographic reproductions of cakes, pies, roasted turkeys, and tables set with knives and forks placed "just so." Rather it is the "life and adventures" of "Bob" and "Bettina" who sail into the complexities of housekeeping the moment the wedding journey is at an end. Bettina's "know-how," plus "Bob's" good natured helpfulness, bring about immediate success to a lively and interesting attempt at home-building.

Bettina no more than entered her new cottage than she dons the white apron and brings every department into working order. The narrative begins with "Home at Last"—and each chapter has its little story along with Bettina's recipes (all the result of scientific training before marriage) and thus we come to find the way to success in every branch of household management through the vision of a practical and sensible young wife.

There is no department left for "guess work" from "ordinary days" to those of the "unexpected guest," the "dropping in" of friends, or the giving of a party, large or small. The book itself is a thing of beauty—handsomely embellished—practical in every way—a wonderful gift for any woman who cares about her home.

ALL COPYRIGHT TITLES

FIVE VOLUMES

Handsomely Bound in Cloth. Full Library Size.

PRICE, 50 CENTS PER VOLUME. NET.....

CAPTAIN JACK LORIMER; or, The Young Athlete of Millvale High.

Jack Lorimer is a fine example of the all-around American high-school boy. His fondness for clean, honest sport of all kinds will strike a chord of sympathy among athletic youths.

JACK LORIMER'S CHAMPIONS; or, Sports on Land and Lake.

There is a lively story woven in with the athletic achievements, which are all right, since the book has been O.K'd by Chadwick, the Nestor of American sporting journalism.

JACK LORIMER'S HOLIDAYS; or, Millvale High in Camp.

It would be well not to put this book into a boy's hands until the chores are finished, otherwise they might be neglected.

JACK LORIMER'S SUBSTITUTE; or, The Acting Captain of the Team.

On the sporting side, the book takes up football, wrestling, and tobogganing. There is a good deal of fun in this book and plenty of action.

JACK LORIMER, FRESHMAN; or, From Millvale High to Exmouth.

Jack and some friends he makes crowd innumerable happenings into an exciting freshman year at one of the leading Eastern colleges. The book is typical of the American college boy's life, and there is a lively story, interwoven with feats on the gridiron, hockey, basketball and other clean, honest sports for which Jack Lorimer stands.

LIST OF PUBLICATIONS

JULY 1, 1918

No. 6

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
No. 2 JACKSON PLACE
WASHINGTON, D. C.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE CARNEGIE ENDOWMENT

The chief agency of propaganda adopted by the Trustees is by publications bearing the imprint of the Endowment. The list of these publications is already large, and some of the earlier pamphlets and monographs are now out of print. In the following list these are included, the publications no longer available for distribution being thus indicated (†).

Many of the publications are issued for gratuitous circulation, and are sent to addresses carried upon the regular mailing lists of the Endowment, or to persons writing for particular publications.

This free distribution does not apply to the publications of the Division of Economics and History nor to certain of the publications of the Division of International Law, which are highly technical in character and appeal to limited groups of students and specialists. In each such case the price is indicated. They can be obtained by remittance to the publishers, either the Clarendon Press, Oxford, England, or the Oxford University Press, American Branch, 35 West 32d Street, New York, N. Y., who are the regular selling agents for the Clarendon Press in this country.

Additional publications will be announced from time to time.

CLASSICS OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

This series, which includes the classic works connected with the history and development of international law, was undertaken by the Carnegie Institution of Washington in 1906, at the suggestion of Mr. James Brown Scott, then Solicitor for the Department of State, under whose supervision as General Editor the series has since been published. On January 1, 1917, the project was transferred to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the publication of the series is being continued by the Endowment's Division of International Law, of which the General Editor of the Classics is the Director. The republication of these classics has been undertaken principally on account of the difficulty of procuring the texts in convenient form for scientific study. The text of each author is reproduced photographically, so as to lay the source before the reader without the mistakes which creep into a newly printed text. An introduction is prefixed to each work, giving the necessary biographical details concerning its author and stating the importance of the text and its place in international law. Tables of errata in the original are added when necessary, and notes to clear up doubts and ambiguities or to correct mistakes in the text are supplied. Each of the Classics is specially edited by an expert in international law and is accompanied by an English version made expressly for the series by a competent translator.

The following works have appeared and are now on sale. The price is indicated for each work.

The Century Co.'s New Books

THE BIOLOGY OF WAR. By G. F. Nicolai. Translated from the German by Julian and Constance Grande. 8vo, 600 pages. Price $3.50

This world-famous work, originally published in Switzerland and now for the first time translated into English, promises to hold for many years to come perhaps the highest place among the books produced by the war Wri.tten by an eminent German scientist, the Professor of Physiology at Berlin University, it presents the most startling indictment of German policy.

The book was written during Professor Nicolai's imprisonment in Graudenz Fortress, to which he was sentenced after a vain effort in the fall of 1914 to counteract the mischief created by the notorious Manifesto of the Ninety-three German Intellectuals. "The Biology of War" opens with a scathing refutation of that manifesto, dealing at length with Germany's responsibility for the war, and then proceeds to discuss and analyse every aspect of war itself, regarded as a factor in biology and civilization.

With the devoted sincerity of a seeker of truth, the author has endeavored to set forth so vital a conception of war that everyone in these trying times may have some solid ground under his feet and may look forward with confidence to a day when war shall have passed from the earth.

NAVAL HEROES OF TODAY. By Francis A. Collins, author of "The Fighting Engineers," etc. 12mo, 300 pages. Illustrated from photographs. Price $1.50

The American Navy is living up to its best traditions in the War with Germany. Dangers are being faced and problems solved which bring new tests of courage. Almost daily the Government rewards some man for "conspicuous bravery." The adventures of the Naval air pilots and observers, the fearlessness of the armed guards aboard the merchant ships, the thrilling life on the scouts and destroyers in battling against the submarines add a new and fascinating chapter to the history of our Navy. Mr. Collins has collected the details of upwards of fifty of these thrilling sea tales and presented them in the attractive style made familiar by his earlier books. It is a record in which every American may take just pride. Few sea stories of fiction stir the blood as do these records of actual achievement. The book is interestingly illustrated from photographs.

RUMANIA'S SACRIFICE: HER PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE. By Gogu Negulesco. 12mo, 300 pages, with maps and illustrations. Price $1.50

Senator Negulesco, who was a member of the Roumanian Parliament when his country entered the war, reveals the mystery of her sudden collapse. But his book is more than a war book. One who has read it will have a pretty clear idea of the whole history of this young nation whose people are of one of the oldest races; he will have a detailed understanding of why Rumania plunged into the war and why she withdrew from it; and know about her resources, economic and political. The author pleads for a closer cooperation between Rumania and the United States. Senator Negulesco maintains that Rumania could and would have aided the Entente more by not actually joining in the war.

MISS MINK'S SOLDIER: AND OTHER STORIES. By Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," etc. 12mo, 200 pages. Frontispiece by Walter Biggs. Price $1.25

This is a book of short stories combining all those qualities of authorship and of human relationship which have endeared the creator of "Mrs. Wiggs" to so many million readers in all parts of the world. The short story is a mode of literary expression which especially appeals to the American reader, and it is a mode especially suited to Mrs. Rice. Even "Mrs. Wiggs" was a long short story.

A book of short stories really offers a gifted author much more varied opportunities of gratifying and satisfying her readers than does a novel. To a degree not possible in a novel the author may pass from the comic to the tragic, may carry the reader to different settings of place and time, may give the reader many times, instead of once, that feeling of eased tension, that pleasure of assisting at the completion of a well-turned whole, which comes to the reader with the conclusion of a good story expertly told.

This new book of Mrs. Rice's contains, in addition to "Miss Mink's Soldier", seven other short stories.

AMERICA IN THE WAR. By Louis Raemaekers. Uniform with "Kultur in Cartoons," etc. Quarto, 210 pages. Price $5.00

This volume is a graphic and stirring panorama of history in the making by the supreme artistic genius discovered and developed by the war. There are over one hundred of M. Raemaekers' powerful cartoons, all reproduced in color in full-page size, and all having reference to America's relation to the modern crusade against the Huns. Each cartoon is faced with a page of comment by some eminent living American. It comprises, in short, in addition to the pictures, an anthology of patriotic opinion with regard to the war, contributed by more than one hundred Americans distinguished in all walks of life. Among the contributors are: William Dean Howells, Booth Tarkington, Vice-President Marshall, Postmaster-General Burleson, Senator Lodge, W. J. Bryan, James W. Gerard, Myron T. Herrick, John Burroughs, Lyman Abbott, Admiral Peary, Robert W. Chambers, Gertrude Atherton, John Philip Sousa, etc., etc.

THE BOOMERANG. By David Gray. 12 mo, 307 pages. 8 illustrations by Norman Price. Price $1.40

This is a novelization of one of the most phenomenal dramatic successes of recent years. The play is one especially adapted to the narrative form, and Mr. Gray has never done a more enjoyable piece of work than that of re-telling tthe charming story of "The Boomerang."

And it is a good story. The plot is unhackneyed, and the dialogue, of which there is a generous quantity, is brilliant and stimulating; the characters are easy to believe in and are irresistibly attractive. Moreover, the narrative moves with that rapidity which appeals to American readers who like to be, even in their imaginative adventures, in the midst of "something doing." The book promises to be as great a success as the play.

STORY-HOUR FAVORITES. By Wilhelmina Harper, Children's Librarian, Queensboro Public Library, New York City. 12mo, 250 pages. Price $1.25

One of the recent ideas most fruitful of benefit for children is that of the regular story hour in library, school and home. Mrs. Harper has had remarkable success herself as a story-teller in one of New York's great public libraries. She has discovered by actual experience just which of the greatest stories of the world make the most appeal to hundreds of American children, and she has checked her own experience with that of many other story-tellers, both professional and amateur. In "Story-Hour Favorites" she has gathered nineteen of these best stories for children of all ages. These include masterpieces by Joel Chandler Harris, Eugene Field, Selma Lagerlof, Oscar Wilde, Katherine Pyle, etc.

HUNTING THE GERMAN SHARK. By Herman Whitaker, author of "Cross Trails." 12mo, 300 pages. Illustrated. Price $1.50

Mr. Whitaker, with the indispensable cooperation of American, British and French naval officers, has been on the trail of the submarine in European waters. He has spent months cruising with a battleship squadron of the Grand Fleet, including a trip on a submarine, studying the situation from records in London and Paris, and interviewing the Entente's seafighters by the scores. These fact-stories of the submarine fight are the result of his months of investigation. They are up to date and entirely authoritative.

Mr. Whitaker begins with a resume of the submarine fight until America entered the war; after that he goes much more into detail. He gives the plan on which America first began naval operations abroad, and then describes fully the different branches of the service—destroyers, converted yachts, mine-sweepers, queer boats, hydroplanes and blimps. There is also information as to the shipbuilding programme all over the world, and reasoned conclusions as to the status of the fight against America and her Allies.

THE FLAME THAT IS FRANCE. By Henry Malherbe. 16mo, 150 pages. Price $1.00

The book that won the famous Goncourt Prize for 1917, awarded the previous year to the author of "Under Fire."

It is perhaps the French temperament as much as the literary skill of the author that lends to this work an air of excitement not to be found in English books of its sort. Made up of impassioned meditations in the trenches and fragmentary, impressionistic sketches of battle life and incident, some tragic, some pathetic, some repulsive, all compelling, it embodies at the same time the weariness and the burning, unconquerable resolution of France at war. The imaginative element that is so pronounced in the author's reflections, together with his grace of expression, lifts his book far above most of its kind.

STAKES OF THE WAR. By Lothrop Stoddard and Glenn Frank. 8vo, 400 pages. Thirteen political, racial and economic maps. Price $2.50

This book is a clearly outlined summary of the facts involved in the problems of race and territory which are involved in the war; the problems, for example, of Belgium, Luxemburg, the Baltic Provinces, the Ukraine, Finland, the Yugo-Slav territories, Poland, Serbia, Albania, Mesopotamia, Syria, etc. The facts of each problem are so arranged that, even though the reader has little previous knowledge of a given problem, he can get a complete and well balanced idea of the issues involved.

In the presentation of each problem there is given a short historical background, an economic survey, and a clear analysis of the facts that one most desires to know; such facts as, the location of the territory, the different races comprising the population, what nation has controlled or occupied the territory, the political, economic, strategic, racial, cultural, and religious interests that various nations have in the territory, and a summary of the various solutions that have been proposed.

SONGS TO A. H. R. By Cale Young Rice, author of "Wraiths and Realities," etc. 16mo, 48 pages. Price $1.00

The latest volume from perhaps the most gifted poet of America, whose genius plumbs more deeply as the years go by. The title indicates the character of the poems gathered between the covers of the book. The following words from Jessie B. Rittenhouse, writing in The Bookman, fairly describe the contents of Mr. Rice's latest book: "They are spiritual and beautiful love songs, often informal in character, as if written for the recipient alone, but all bringing a breath of the upper air of love and reaffirming one's faith in its permanence."

THE CATSKILLS. By T. Morris Longstreth, author of "The Adirondacks." 8vo, 300 pages. 32 full-page illustrations. Price $2.50

This is a sort of glorified guidebook, a delightfully written and charmingly illustrated informal handbook on one of the most interesting and accessible of our great national playgrounds. As is well known, the Catskills are a joy to the geologist as well as the naturalist, and they are the scene of many of the most fascinating of the old Dutch legends of the Hudson River region. Mr. Longstreth is a born tramper and camper, intimately familiar with the natural and historical features of the mountains, as well as with their villages and country folk. His book will appeal strongly to those who know the beautiful views, the famous climate, and the bracing air of the Catskills, and others will read it for its evocation of a notable America panorama, its breezy aroma of the great outdoors. The 32 full-page illustrations add materially to the charm of the book.

THE GOLDEN BIRD. By Maria Thompson Daviess, author of "The Melting of Molly," etc. 12mo, 250 pages. 4 illustrations by Edward L. Chase. Price $1.35

This is an idyl of Harpeth Valley, lonely Ann Craddock, a flock of thoroughbred chickens and a man who came out of the woods, who knew all about the earth and the living things closest to it and who fared far and near just helping people and animals in distress. It is sheer romance, as light as thistle-floss, as gay as a singing hen in a dust-bath, as sweet and clean as lilac in fresh bloom.

Ann Craddock's father put his money in a phosphate company, and presently it was only a memory. She packed him and his library and herself away to the ancestral home in Harpeth Valley, determined to fight the family's financial way with chickens. And Adam came out of the woods, reading Horace and telling her of a love of a depth and quality she had never before believed possible. "The Golden Bird" is a gift of delight to a war-ridden public.

THE RED HEART OF RUSSIA. By Bessie Beatty. 8vo, 300 pages. 50 illustrations from photographs. Price $2.00

A fascinating personal record of a woman's adventures in revolutionary Russia, with certain unique psychological explorations of the contemporary Russian mind. Miss Beatty witnessed the Bolshevik Revolution throughout its entire course, she was present at the arrest of the Provisional Government, she interviewed, in the Peter and Paul Fortress, a number of the Ministers of the Czar's regime, and she saw also the fall of Moscow. But most interesting of all perhaps is her analysis of the Russian peasant mind in action. Her book is filled with striking anecdotes and with a harvest of observations such as only an intrepid woman with a trained eye could have gathered. Her book covers the second or economic revolution.

THE MERRY HEART. By Helen Raymond Abbott. 12mo, 350 pages. Illustrated. Price $1.40

There were Anne and her two younger sisters on a New England farm. She was not old and she was pretty and ambitious and vital and able. All the rest of the family depended on her, not consciously selfish but selfish nevertheless: slowly she was becoming a nurse, a servant to the rest of the family. Life called to her, not less powerfully than to the younger sisters, but more powerfully. Chains in the semblance of duties bound her more tightly every day, hope went further back into the distance.

Did Anne one day take high ground and fight? She did, and the fight she made is the best part of this remarkably good story by a new author who sees things in an individual manner and tells them with alluring simplicity and power. This is a first novel of unusual promise.

HANDBOOK OF FURNITURE STYLES. By Walter A. Dyer, author of "The Lure of the Antique," etc. 8vo, 140 pages. 75 illustrations. Price $1.50

Though many works exist dealing with furniture and period styles, they are in general unwieldy, diffuse, and difficult for the lay reader. Mr. Dyer's task, for which he is well fitted by years of study on this subject, has been to condense all this wealth of material into one small, handy volume, from which the average reader may readily gather the salient features of each of the historic furniture styles, and so be able to identify them either in the form of originals or of reproductions.

Mr. Dyer's simple, direct style and the manner in which his material is arranged make this handbook one of unique usefulness. Photographs of typical examples of the different styles in furniture, a chronological table, and a carefully constructed index add materially to the practical value of the book.

THE AERO BLUE BOOK. By Henry G. Woodhouse and Francis A. Collins. Large quarto, 300 pages. Profusely illustrated.

A handbook of popular aeronautics for the United States, somewhat comparable in its field with the well-known Automobile Blue Book.

"The Aero Blue Book" contains a vast mass of information indispensable to the student of air-flying and air-travel. It describes the aerial mail routes that are being established throughout the country and discusses the future of aerial transportation, the building of aerodromes, and the after-the-war employment of the vast fleet of aircraft now being built for military purposes. It gives statistics of proposed air routes, with accurate and detailed timetables. The book contains a large number of photographs, diagrams, and charts, together with a 17-page map of the Woodrow Wilson airway, the zone eighty miles in width extending across the continent from New York to San Francisco, which is to be the great American aerial highway of the future. The authors are authorities on their subject.

HELEN OF TROY: AND ROSE. By Phyllis Bottome, author of "The Dark Tower," etc. 12mo, 250 pages. Price $1.25

This volume contains two examples of Miss Bottome's most delightful fictive art, neither of them of full novel size, both of them longer than short stories and both of them of that form which the author handles with such graceful ease, with such alluring brillance. Every page shines with good humor.

Of Miss Bottome's method and manner the following quotation from The New York Times gives an indication of the general American critical verdict: "Her gifts as a story-teller are not only decided but individual. A strong and pungent flavor of personality breathes from all her pages and gives to them a unique tang—something that is always a blessed thing to find in fiction of any sort."

THE AMERICAN RIFLE. By Major Townsend Whelan, U. S. A. Royal 8vo, 1000 pages. Over 300 illustrations. Price $5.00

A definitive work by the supreme American authority on the subject, the only work on its subject in existence, on the American rifle in all its phases: historical, ballistic, design, operation, practical use, etc. Written from the civilian, not the military, standpoint, and in a clear, untechnical style, the book is pre-eminently practical and is designed to give the reader every scrap of available information on the subject of the selection and use of the rifle.

"The American Rifle" is a lifework which has been steadily under consideration for the last ten years. It is a work for every sportsman's library and it will find a wide public also among military men and civilians generally. The book is very fully illustrated from photographs and diagrams.

OUR HUMBLE HELPERS: THE DOMESTIC ANIMALS. By Jean-Henri Fabre, author of "The Story Book of Science," etc. Translated by Florence Constable Bicknell. 12mo, 400 pages. Illustrated. Price $2.00

"Our Humble Helpers" is another of Fabre's marvelous nature books for children which in France have gone into many editions. The translation is by Florence Constable Bicknell, whose work on "The Story-book of Science" has been praised highly as having captured and brought into the English the real flavor of the French original.

The American reading public already knows the great scientist as one who could make grasshoppers, locusts, bees and other insects as interesting as the heroes and heroines of thrilling fiction. In this newest book to come over into English he tells about our domestic helpers—our dogs, horses, chickens, ducks, geese, etc. Though the book is primarily for boys and girls, it is full of charm for grown people, who, like Fabre himself, and like children, still see that the world is always more and more wonderful.

THE BOOK OF AMERICAN WARS. By Helen Nicolay, author of "Our Nation in the Building," etc. 8vo, 464 pages. Illustrated. Price $2.00

Of course everybody has read of our wars in histories, along with a great deal of other matters; Miss Nicolay lifts the wars out of a vast mass of other matters, so that the reader gets a clear idea of what America's fighting record has been. There is just enough of the other historical material to give the wars their proper setting. In this way she deals with: Our Revolution—a fight for nationality; The War of 1812—a fight for fair play; The Mexican War—a fight for conquest; The Civil War—a fight for freedom; The Spanish War—a fight for a weak neighbor; The War of 1917—a fight for humanity.

Miss Nicolay has the gift of capturing the color, the motion, the very life of other days; and she has done no more fascinating historical narrative than that of "The Book of American Wars."

MISS INGALIS. By Gertrude Hall, author of "Aurora the Magnificent," etc. 12mo, 300 pages. With a frontispiece by R. M. Brinkerhoff. Price $1.40

Gertrude Hall will be gratefully remembered for her "Aurora The Magnificent," that delightful story of an American woman who captured the supercilious, supersophisticated, Anglo-American colony of Florence, and who captured as well so many thousand delighted American readers. "Miss Ingalis," Miss Hall's latest novel, is a love story about a beautiful woman, two men of entirely opposite characters, and a family so variously and plentifully endowed with meanness that it is fascinating to read about them. The narrative gets on its way on the first page, and proceeds with the smoothness and grace of all Mrs. Hall's novels to a satisfactory conclusion. "Miss Ingalis" is a heroine worth knowing.

MAGGIE OF VIRGINSBURG. By Helen R. Martin, author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid," etc. 12mo, 300 pages. Frontispiece. Price $1.40

This is another of the author's delightful stories of the "Pennsylvania Dutch," with the plot centering about a boy and girl, both of whom owe their parentage to "outsider." A sharp conflict develops between these idealistic children, fiercely loyal to each other, and their materially-minded guardians who "live by bread alone." Even as school-children, Maggie Wentzler and Henry Butz rebel furiously against the sordidness and unfairness of their adopted families and, later, when they are grown, carry the spirit of insurgency into the colleges which both attend and so at last into the larger world.

The author has drawn inspiration for this book, she says, from the ever-recurring struggle in our universities between rebels among the faculty and the more conservative trustees.

WORKING MY WAY AROUND THE WORLD. By Harry A. Franck. Edited by Lena M. Franck. 12mo, 350 pages. 46 half-tone illustrations. Price $1.35

This is primarily an abridgment of Harry A. Franck's famous "A Vagabond Journey Around the World," published for those who do not care to invest the time and money required for the reading of the original. In the smaller form the adventures will be more instantly attractive to younger readers, though the contents will be just as attractive to adult as juvenile readers. In many cases, too, the smaller book will serve as an attractive introduction to the complete edition.

Miss Franck, the editor, has gone over "A Vagabond Journey Around the World," and has lifted out the most entertaining and instructive sections, which are reproduced largely in the words of the original. The matter between these high points she has rewritten in much smaller space than it occupies in the original, but in a way to retain the continuity of the story. The illustrations are from photographs by the author.

RURAL LIFE. By C. J. Galpin of the University of Wisconsin. 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. Price $2.50

This country, indeed all the world, has never before had so emphatically dramatized for it the plain fact that upon the farmers we all depend fundamentally for the necessities of life. And although in this country they constitute more than one-third of the population, it is probable that no other important group of American citizens is so little understood, so little studied, so little helped with intelligent cooperation by the other groups. And that despite the fact, which is universally admitted, that the men upon the land must lose less of their sons and daughters to the city, and that all those who remain on the land must capitalize the assets of sun, rain, soil and seed more efficiently than heretofore, that is, if America is not to become a dependent nation.

Professor Galpin's profound study of the subject is from a new and refreshing viewpoint; his book is an authoritative volume which should be of extraordinary interest and value to the farmer and every other American who is interested in him.

DEMOCRACY IN EDUCATION: A SOCIAL INTERPRETATION OF THE HISTORY OF EDUCATION. By Joseph Kinmont Hart, Professor of Education, Reed College, Oregon. 12 Mo, 418 pages. Price $1.80

This book conceives of educational development as an integral part of the whole development of society. In general harmony with the Dewey program of educational reconstruction, it presents the history of education as having shared the problems of economic, political and religious development through the ages. The constant tendency of all educational programs to become traditions, customs, habits is here recognized; the place of economic, political, religious and cultural crises in the remaking of society becomes the starting point of new educational programs; and the school shares the common fate of all social institutions of being subject to the reconstructive criticisms of events. "Democracy in Education" is a book for the general reader as well as for the teacher.

SECRETARY BAKER AT THE FRONT. By Ralph A. Hayes. 16mo, 175 pages. 16 illustrations from photographs. Price $1.00

This is the authentic, and the only authentic, account of our War Secretary's momentous trip to England, France and Italy in the spring of 1918, during which he conferred with all the political and military leaders of our Allies and visited the actual battlefronts. No one could know the details of this trip better than the author, who was Mr. Baker's private secretary. He was, of necessity, in the midst of all the stirring events of the seven weeks between Washington and Rome—a seven weeks that have had a decisive influence on the course of the war. The book is interestingly illustrated from photographs taken under the supervision of the author.

THE BROWNIES AND PRINCE FLORIMEL. By Palmer Cox, author of "The Brownies: Their Book," etc. Square 8vo, 246 pages. Over 200 illustrations by the author. Price $1.50

This is a new kind of Brownie book. It is all in prose this time, and it is a detailed, connected story, with a beginning, a middle and an end. In addition to the chief allurements of the preceding Brownie books, which it has of course, there is this time the tension, the suspense, the thrill of a well-connected prose narrative.

But the chief fact is, after all, that the Brownies are back again, like the first Autumn apples; and this year a new army of boys and girls will follow their pied piper, the Brownie man, Palmer Cox. As lively and jolly as ever, and as queer and fantastic, they are once more going to troop through thousands of small heads and bring them funny, friendly dreams at night.

All the old favorites reappear in this new volume and some new ones too. There are mermaids, for instance, and a whole kingdom of fairies. In fact, there are three kingdoms in the book, Brownieland, Fairyland, and Demonland, and Palmer Cox has peopled them all, in pictures and in text, as only he knows how to do. The author believes this is his best book.

THE MYSTERY OF RAM ISLAND. By Joseph Bushnell Ames, author of "Under Boy Scout Colors," etc. 12mo, 266 pages. 8 illustrations by Forrest Orr. Price $1.35

A story of life in the open for boys by the author of the popular "Under Boy Scout Colors", and the new story deals with a camp in which the wholesome rules of the Boy Scouts of America are followed by the boys. Alan Blake did not want to go to the summer camp on the seashore which had been selected for him, because he thought he would meet "only a bunch of kids" there. But he was agreeably surprised, and before many days he had joyfully settled down to the vigorous work and play laid out for him. Meanwhile, too, he and a comrade became involved in a search for a desperate gang of German spies who had a wireless apparatus in a deserted house on the coast and who were plotting to destroy a big munitions plant turning out shells for the U.S. Government.

MELISSA-ACROSS-THE-FENCE. By Augusta Huiell Seaman, author of "The Boarded-Up-House," etc. 12mo, 121 pages. 3 illustrations by C. M. Relyea. Price $1.00

Mrs. Seaman, whose mystery stories for boys and girls of from ten to sixteen years old have been so successful, with this new book will add a new group to her admirers, namely, the very little boys and girls between the ages of six and ten years. For "Melissa-Across-The-Fence" was written especially for these smaller readers.

Melissa's mother was a seamstress who lived in a very small house, but next door to it was a very grand mansion, in which no one lived. And then one day all was bustle and confusion in the great house as servants and trunks moved in. But the house still remained a mystery to Melissa, who gazed at it from her window. Then one day a small face appeared at a bay window, and a little boy held up a paper with huge letters on it for Melissa to read. His message said: "I am so Lonely." And Melissa answered with equally large letters on her toy blackboard telling him her name.

Then there unfolds a touching and absorbing story in which Melissa and the little boy in the grand house are the chief figures.

CINDERELLA'S GRANDDAUGHTER. By Beth B. Gilchrist. 12mo, 230 pages. Illustrated by C. Clyde Squires. Price $1.25

This is the story of a modern Cinderella whose happy adventures were as well deserved as they were enjoyed. The author has caught the spirit of pluck and charm and gaiety that characterizes American girlhood.

Dorothea was the general manager at her home. The twins required a lot of time and attention, Elise was her best pal but she was young, and her father and her brother needed plain taking care of. Then came an invitation to visit her foster aunt's home of magnificence and luxury, where everything that she could wear or eat or ride was to be provided. But could she leave Jim and all the others to look out for themselves? What she decided and what adventures came her way as Cinderella's granddaughter make the story.

PATRIOTISM AND THE FLAG. Retold from St. Nicholas. Edited by Charles L. Barstow. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. Price 75 cents

A book for young patriots.

Parmalee McFadden, in "The Origin of Our Flag," gives a complete and authoritative history of the Stars and stripes. J. L. Harbour, in "The Story of the Star Spangled Banner," tells the history of Francis Scott Key and his writing of the famous poem. There is a history of the Liberty Bell, an account of West Point, a sketch of the life of the soldier during the revolution and now, and a remarkable account of all kinds of fighting ships—dreadnoughts, pre-dreadnought, super-dreadnoughts, etc. Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is the author of an inspiriting narrative of Thomas Nelson, who gave his all for liberty. In addition to these fact-articles are several other excellent pieces of fiction in the same spirit as the articles described above.

EVERYDAY HEROES. Retold from St. Nicholas. Edited by Charles L. Barstow. 12mo, 200 pages. 8 illustrations. Price 75 cents.

A book of inspiration as well as of entertainment, being a selection of the best recent St. Nicholas stories and articles presenting examples of courage and devotion. Some of the material is fact, as the article by Jacob A. Riis entitled, "Heroes Who Fight Fire," which tells of the firemen of New York and gives numerous instances of their high courage. Booker T. Washington has another fact-article, entitled "Heroes in Black Skins." Frank Lillie Pollock, author of "Wilderness Honey," one of last year's charming juveniles, contributes a thrilling story of the Mississippi in flood, called "At War with the River." Martin M. Foss, in a story, "Walter Harvey—Coward," tells of a boy who made the greatest conquest—who conquered himself. And then there is a story of a stowaway and an infernal machine, a story of Alpine adventure, etc., etc.

THE GIRLS OF OLD GLORY. By Mary Constance Dubois, author of "The Lass of the Silver Sword," etc. 12mo, 421 pages. 4 illustrations by A. D. Rahn. Price $1.35

This is a rollicking story for girls by the author of those other popular stories, "Elinor Arden, Royalist," "The League of the Signet Ring," "The Lass of the Silver Sword," etc. The author never wrote a happier story for her large circle of readers than "The Girls of Old Glory." It concerns itself with a group of patriotic students in a private school and a girl of mystery who comes to live in a magnificent old mansion near the school. The beautiful girl of mystery in the old mansion, who is a mystery even to herself, meets the friendly students more than halfway; and the story, while it solves the fascinating problem of her parentage, also reproduces the hearty, happy, patriotic life of "The Girls of Old Glory" doing their best for their county.

COURAGEOUS GIRLS. Retold from St. Nicholas. Edited by Charles L. Barstow. 12mo, 200 pages. 12 illustrations. Price 75 cents.

A great Frenchman has said that the best definition is an example; also the most pressing precept is an example. "Courageous Girls" contains the best stories of their kind that have appeared in recent years, stories that are absorbingly interesting while they present examples of courage, devotion and loyalty in girls in many fields of activity.

The stories have the most varied and fascinating of settings—in the West of the pioneers, in Quebec, Japan, France, at the seashore among the life-savers, in the Russia of the Czars, etc., etc. Some of the authors whose work is included in the book are C. H. Claudy, Mary K. Maule, S. W. Hovey, Fannie Locke Mackenzie, etc.

THREE SIDES OF PARADISE GREEN. By Augusta Huiell Seaman, author of "The Sapphire Signet," etc. 12mo, 275 pages, with 8 illustrations by C. M. Relyea. Price $1.35

This is another of Mrs. Seaman's fascinating mystery stories for girls.

Stafford was only a little town, and Paradise Green was a mile from even that, and there were only three houses on Paradise Green. Nothing interesting, or important, or romantic had ever happened or could happen in Paradise Green, the three girls of the story thought; and then, by advice of a beloved teacher, one of them began keeping a day-by-day journal, and they all began looking around more keenly for things to put in it. And there, right under their eyes, was a fascinating mystery which they had never known the existence of before. The story tells how the girls solved the mystery and what an exciting time they had doing it.

LOST ISLAND. By Ralph Henry Barbour and H. P. Holt. 12mo, 389 pages. 8 illustrations by C. M. Relyea. Price $1.35

Mr. Barbour, author of "The Crimson Sweater," "Captain Chub," "Team Mates," and many others, is one of the most deservedly popular of American writers of stories for boys. "Lost Island," written in collaboration with H. P. Holt, who also has the narrative gift to an unusual degree, is one of the best boys' stories published in recent years.

Dave Hallard came of a seafaring stock, and by the time he left high school the sea was calling him irresistibly. Difficulties had to be surmounted to answer the call, but there was no keeping him back. The book relates his adventures as he fared about over the Seven Seas.

Books Published by The Century Co. in the Spring and Summer of 1918

THE MAD MONK OF RUSSIA, ILIODOR: LIFE, CONFESSIONS, AND MEMOIRS OF SERGEI M. TRUFANOFF. 30 full page illustrations from photographs, with facsimiles of important documents, etc. 8vo, 350 pages. Price $2.00

Perhaps the most amazing of all the amazing books that have come out of Russia, the authentic memoirs of Sergius M. Trufanoff.

Mr. Trufanoff, as many Americans know, was for many years the closest friend and confidant of Rasputin, the "holy devil" of the Russian court. As Father Iliodor, Abbot of the great Russian monastery of Tsaritzin, he was entrusted with the preparation of Rasputin for the priesthood, and the latter, at a time when he was hard pressed by his accusers, sought in every way to promote the fortunes of Iliodor in order to gain his powerful support and that of his immense popular following.

The Century Co. has taken the greatest pains to corroborate the very complicated evidence in Iliodor's astonishing story. It considers that the book is not only of extraordinary interest from the popular standpoint but of great historical value as well, Iliodor being one of the most striking and significant figures of modern Russia.

ROVING AND FIGHTING: ADVENTURES UNDER FOUR FLAGS. By Major Edward S. (Tex) O'Reilly. 8vo, 350 pages. 21 illustrations from photographs. Jacket in color. Price $2.00

Rex Beach took an incident from Tex O'Reilly's life and made a successful novel from it. O'Reilly's own fact-story of his life is as thrilling and colorful as a half-dozen romances, and it is all told with vividness and engaging simplicity.

In the army at seventeen, through the campaign in Cuba, fighting in the Philippines both as a regular and as a scout, proprietor of a school of English in Japan, bodyguard for a Chinese rent collector, instructor in the Chinese Army, filibustering in Venezuela, fighting and reporting for the Associated Press in Mexico with Villa, Orozco, Zapata and other rebel leaders—this is only an indication of the material in "Roving and Fighting."

The San Francisco Bulletin says: "Major O'Reilly's book has all the fascination of virile, romantic fiction, plus interesting sidelights on notable characters and much other material of an informing nature."

WRAITHS AND REALITIES. By Cale Young Rice, author of "Trails Sunward," etc. 12mo, 187 pages. Price $1.25

Each year sees a strengthening of Cale Young Rice's position among the very foremost of contemporary poets, as each year sees an addition to his great and free achievement. "He not only has written some of the finest poetry of the last decade," said the Los Angeles Times, reviewing his recent volume, "Trails Sunward," "but he is the author of the very best poetic dramas ever written by an American."

In this new volume Mr. Rice once more shows his great mastery of lyric, narrative and dramatic utterance in work of fresh, searching, original and powerful beauty.

FILM FOLK: "CLOSE-UPS" OF THE MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN WHO MAKE THE "MOVIES." By Rob Wagner. 8vo, 356 pages. 32 full-page illustrations from photographs. Price $2.00

A book of humor and entertaining facts. It is a sort of Los Angeles Canterbury Tales wherein appear the stories, told in the first person, of the handsome film actor whose beauty is fatal to his comfort; of the child wonder; the studio mother; the camera man, who "shoots the films"; the scenario writer; the "extra" man and woman, whose numbers are as the sands of the sea; the publicity man, who "rings the bells," etc., etc.

The author contrives to set forth in the course of the book the entire movie-making world. The reader gets a clear idea of how the films are made, and he is immensely entertained with the accounts of the manners and customs of the inhabitants of the vast movie villages—manners and customs unique in many respects.

DONALD THOMPSON IN RUSSIA. By Donald Thompson. 8vo, 300 pages. 64 illustrations from photographs taken by the author. Price $2.00

This book constitutes an amazing, contemporary, eye-witness record of Russia in revolution by an American photographer and moving picture man who had to be in the midst of the cataclysm and who was interested only in seeing the facts.

When Mr. Thompson started for Russia, to fall into the biggest story he had ever dreamed of, he began writing newsy, vivid letters to his wife. As he penetrated more deeply into the thrilling events in Russia, he found himself telling the story of the Russian revolution, in detail, as he saw it, as it happened. The illustrations are a feature of the book.

THE FIGHTING ENGINEERS. By Francis A. Collins, author of "The Camera Man," etc. 12mo, 200 pages. 31 illustrations from photographs. Price $1.30

A popular account of the work of our American Engineering Forces in the Great War and a thrilling narrative of our "Soldiers of Freedom."

When the American public thinks of its army in France it usually thinks only of the infantry, cavalry or artillery. But in this age a locomotive may prove more deadly than a battery, and the skilful and rapid building or destruction of a bridge may decide a battle; and the engineers face perils as great as any of their brothers arrayed against the Huns. Indeed, for the first year of the war the greatest exploits of the American Army in France were the marvels achieved by the engineering branch of the service.

It is the story of these achievements that Mr Collins tells in "The Fighting Engineers." He is well-known for the clear and popular style with which he presents subjects of technical interest.

COMRADES. By Mary Dillon, author of "The Rose of Old St. Louis," etc. 12mo, 396 pages. 4 illustrations by R. M. Brinkerhoff. Price $1.40

A love-story with the Great War as background. The scenes are in Germany, France, Italy, England and the United States; and the characters are all sooner or later caught in the colossal conflict. The reader follows the thrilling narrative as it traces the life-stories of the scattered characters until, finally, they are gathered together once again. It is a straightaway story full of action and stimulating dialogue, rich in the elements of romance and the charm of personality.

The Chicago Evening Post says: "In the first place, this is an enchanting story. In the second place it is a perfectly plausible story, one that has its counterpart in so many instances since the war began that it is an old story. But to this old story Mary Dillon has added the personal touch that makes dark places liminous; that gives, in fact, this book its enchantment."

JUST OUTSIDE. By Stacy Aumonier, author of "The Friends," etc. 12mo, 344 pages. Frontispiece in color. Price $1.35

This is Stacy Aumonier's latest novel and perhaps his best. It is the story of a man of moods, a man of temperament, attempting to adjust himself to his environment and his environment to himself. It takes account of his boyhood, his schooling, his young manhood, his work as an artist and as a dramatist, and his love affairs.

Mr. Aumonier is an artist, not a preacher; which is to say that his narratives are stories by virtue of characters created and alive, by virtue of a plot built with satisfying symmetry, and by virtue of a style brilliant, supple, rich in allusions of an individual nature that feels a great part of the world and feels it in his own special way.

WINGS IN THE NIGHT. By Alice Duer Miller. 16mo, 47 pages. Price $1.00

Mrs. Miller, author of "Come Out of the Kitchen!", "Ladies Must Live" and other novels, has heretofore chiefly been known for her brilliant fiction and occasional satirical essays. The quality of the heart is always in her novels and essays, even though it is often unnoticed in the glare of those scintillating qualities we characterize as of the head. In her poetry, however, Mrs. Miller, while giving the best of her craftsmanship to the making of the verse, invests her words with a poignancy of emotion of a degree not present in her novels. Admirers of Mrs. Miller the novelist and essayist will be delighted to come in contact through this volume of exquisite poetry with a new side of her amazingly rich personality.

THE ROOTS OF THE WAR. By William Stearns Davis, in collaboration with William Anderson and Mason W. Tyler. 12 mo, 400 pages, with six maps. Price $1.50

This book undertakes to outline the circumstances that made possible Germany's daring attempt to achieve at one, or, at most, two or three ruthless and gigantic strokes of the sword, the establishment of a world empire, an Empire of Teutonia, indescribably vaster, richer more universal than that of imperial Rome.

President Wilson, himself a historian, has said: "You can explain most wars very simply, but the explanation of this war is not so simple. Its roots run deep into all the obscure soils of history."

It is to discover some of these roots and their fateful growths that this book was written. It covers especially the period from 1870 to 1914, with background references of course to preceding European history."

The New Work Times doubts if any other book on the causes of the war has equaled it in "scholarly thoroughness, depth of investigation, breadth of view, ability to summarize and interpret events, and ease and readableness of presentation."

THE HAPPPIEST TIME OF THEIR LIVES. By Alice Duer Miller, author of "Ladies Must Live," etc. 12mo, 8 full-page illustrations by Paul Meylan. Price $1.40

In this new novel Mrs. Miller has struck a graver, deeper, kinder note than in any of her other novels, giving to it at the same time all her usual brilliance, wit and gaiety.

The New York Times says: "A brilliant story of New York 'society,' delightfully written. . . . Its cleverness is not mere surface brilliance; it is keen satire as well. The story is worked out delightfully, as a story; and through it is the sharp interest of the contrasting types of women, the way they meet each other, the way they meet men, the way they meet life. . . . But whatever one seeks in the novel —so long as it is something clean and bright—and from whatever standpoint one approaches 'The Happiest Time of Their Lives', it is a book that will be thoroughly enjoyed."

Raemaeker has struck off, as the war progressed, pictures that constitute perhaps the most remarkable record of colossal history in the making that the world has ever known.

Each of the four volumes will contain one hundred full-page cartoons, each faced by a page of explanatory or supplementary text.

THE FIREFLY OF FRANCE. By Marion Polk Angellotti. 12mo, 363 pages. 4 illustrations by Grant T. Reynard. Price $1.40

This is not a story of laughter or tears, of shock or depression. It has no manufactured gloom. It preaches no reform. It has not a single social problem around which the characters move and argue and agonize. It invites the reader to be thrilled, and dares him (or her) to weep.

Briefly, "The Firefly of France" is in the manner of the romance—in the manner of Dumas, of Walter Scott. It is a story of love, mystery, danger, and daring. It opens in the gorgeous St. Ives Hotel in New York and ends behind the Allied lines in France. The story gets on its way on the first page, and the interest is continuous and increasing until the last page. And it is all beautifully done.

THE WOMAN VOTER'S MANUAL. INTRODUCTION BY MRS. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT. By S. E. Forman and Marjorie Shuler. 16mo, 200 pages. Price $1.00

Every woman voter, actual and prospective, which means nearly every woman in the United States, needs this book. It explains what the machinery of balloting is, tells the steps to be taken by the voter in all kinds of elections, and in general makes the way easy for the voter who is a beginner in the most important privilege an American woman enjoys as a citizen and the most important duty she can serve. But the book does more than that: it supplies a background of information as to the organization of the government, the history of the chief political parties, and other related subjects, an understanding of which is indispensable to the citizen, upon whom the burden rests not only of voting but of voting intelligently. It is perhaps the best book of its kind so far published.

THE WAR-WHIRL IN WASHINGTON. By Frank Ward O'Malley. 12mo, 350 pages. 16 illustrations by Tony Sarg. Price $1.50

The Independent says: "In 'The War Whirl in Washington,' Frank Ward O'Malley has drawn an irresistibly funny picture of our rudely roused capital, trying frantically to keep up with the war and clutching wildly lest oldtime traditions be lost in the shuffle.

The ludicrous restrictions of red tape; the reluctance of Congress to abandon precedents that interfere with action; the rush of profiteers large and small, with special emphasis on taxibandits; the influence of total abstinence on the Washingtonian populance, are all subjects of deepest mirth and sharpest irony as Mr. O'Malley points them out to us. His descriptions manage somehow to keep good-humored and yet to spare not at all just scorn where scorn is due.

"For the most part 'The War Whirl in Washington' forbears to be so serious. Any chapter of it furnishes good jokes enough for a dozen dinner parties. But the unescapable conviction of truth points all its humor. You may take Mr. O'Malley's book as you will—in jest or in earnest—but don't fail to take it!"

And the Sarg pictures are wonders.

THE BLUE JAYS IN THE SIERRAS. By Helen Ellsworth. 12mo, 208 pages. 16 illustrations from photographs. Price $1.25

A story of the camping experiences of a wide-awake family of young folks in the Sierra Mountains, near Lake Tahoe, in California. It is a book which will give pleasure to boys and girls, and incidentally will show fathers and mothers (especially mothers) that camp life, sleeping in the open under the stars for six weeks, a few tumbles from a horse's back and roughing it generally, are good things for growing children, and make not only for health but for courtesy and kindliness and the give-and-take of life in general. It is a book of real refreshment.

THE RETURN OF THE SOLDIER. By Rebecca West. 16 mo, about 200 pages. 4 full-page illustrations, by Norman Price. Price $1.00

This story is one of the finest things in contemporary fiction, and the publishers recommend it without reservation. Though the story is set in England, the background is the most tremendous event of modern times, an event that already is touching Americans.

"This book is like a golden cup of some best period, beautifully designed, graven with details one cannot look at often enough, covered with a patina such as nobody but Rebecca West gets, and filled with a curious wine of unfamiliar vintage."—New York Republic.

"Miss West has told a superb love story tersely and beautifully, with warmth and significance."—New York Sun.

"So unusual in plot, so faithful in its realism, yet so touched with the higher issues of life as to stand almost alone among stories of war for beauty and terror and truth."—Chicago Tribune.

RIGHT ABOVE RACE. By Otto H. Kahn. Foreword by Franklin K. Lane, U. S. Secretary of the Interior. Tall 16mo, 182 pages. Price 75 cents

Ringing confessions of patriotic faith by this well-known American of German birth, who says: "The greatest service which men of German birth or antecedents can render to the country of their origin is to set their faces like flint against the monstrous doctrines and acts of a rulership which has robbed them of the Germany which they loved and in which they took just pride." In this spirit he handles such themes as Prussianized Germany, Americans of German Origin and the War, The Poison Growth of Prussianism, The Myth of "A Rich Man's War," and Frenzied Liberty. It is a book of encouragement for America.

A WOMAN'S WAR-TIME JOURNAL. By Dolly Sumner Lunt (Mrs. Thomas Burge). With an introduction and notes by Julian Street. 16mo, 70 pages. Price 60 cents

The public is indebted to Julian Street for the discovery of this unique piece of war-time literature. The war is the Civil War, and the event that bulks largest in the journal is the terrible march of General Sherman on his way to the sea. Terrible, that is, for the people and lands his devasting army touched in passing. It is an extraordinary document, artistic in its re-creation of time, people, and events gone by. Incidentally, it shows how to meet hardship and how little of hardship, comparatively, Americans have so far suffered in their newest war.

CASTE THREE. By Gertrude M. Shields. 12mo, 350 pages. Frontispiece in color. Price $1.40

A fascinating story of small-town life in the Middle West, told with vigor and verve and with the fresh touch of a new writer. It is a segment out of the life of Hewitt Stevenson, who begins by being, young, pseudo-intellectual and unsocial, and of Chicago. He sojourns in Alston, Indiana, which he investigates sociologically, especially Caste Three. What happens to him there is the story.

The New York Tribune says: "A very fascinating story. . . . Miss Shield has invested her characters with much charm, humor and naturalness."

Fosdick, Chairman of the War and Navy Departments Commissions on Training Camp Activities. 12mo, 250 pages. Illustrated from photographs. Price $1.25

The following selected chapter-headings indicate the nature of the book: Club Life; Athletics, Recreation and Development; Singing; Library System; Entertainment; Hostess Houses; Educational Work; Playground Work; The Old Problem (and what is being done to solve it).

It is profusely illustrated.

RUNAWAY RUSSIA. By Florence Harper. 8vo, 350 pages. Illustrated with 32 full-page photographs taken by Donald Thompson. Price $2.00

This book presents the Russian revolution as seen through a woman's eyes, and with special references to the cataclysm as it affected women. Miss Harper is a trained newspaper correspondent and a veteran campaigner; she has the dramatic instinct, the artist's eye for color and movement and proportion and the literary craftsman's feeling for the right word to get to the reader the right shade of meaning; and so "Runaway Russia" not only presents the colossus in its epic struggle for freedom but tells the story with a narrative sweep that is breath-taking and with vivid flashes that print upon the reader's imagination pictures that he will never forget. The book is a remarkable achievement.

FLASHES FROM THE FRONT. By Charles H. Grasty. With a Foreword by General John J. Pershing. Octavo, 350 pages. Illustrated with 16 illustrations from photographs, and drawings by Muirhead Bone, one of the official artists for the British Government. Price $2.00

General Pershing says: "The exceptional opportunities of observation enjoyed by the author will make this volume one of the best among contemporary publications on the war."

Mr. Grasty is a war correspondent of the New York Times traveling with orders to go wherever there are big things to see, study and write about. "The exceptional opportunities of observation" spoken of by General Pershing are founded on the international prestige of his paper, the machinery for facilitating the seeing and reporting put at his disposal by the regular correspondents in Europe wherever he went, and Mr. Grasty's own special equipment for seeing and studying the great figures and events of the war. His book is a series of brilliant sidelights on the war, illuminating now an outstanding figure among the Allies, now a section of trench-life, now a matter of diplomacy or international politics, or military strategy.

AMERICA AFTER THE WAR. By an American Jurist. 16mo, 150 pages. Price $1.00

The New York Times says: "This book brings within our view the pathway to greatness and security for this nation. . . . As its title tells us, it is a book of the American future, but the counsels of the 'American Jurist,' who is its author, are the fruit of long study of the American past and present, of the interests and policies of other nations which we may assume to be adverse to our own, of the legends upon the signposts of history which point out the way to profit and advantage for ourselves. It is a book that stimulates thought, a book for every American to read who concerns himself about our future."

"LADIES FROM HELL." By R. D. Pinkerton. Illustrated from photographs. 12mo, 300 pages. Price $1.50

This is war. Mr. Pinkerton was a member of the now famous London Scottish Regiment, which went into the fighting at the very beginning. "Ladies from Hell" the Germans called the Scotchmen in kilts or skirts who came tearing through their lines. Mr. Pinkerton came to know war for what it is. The first draught of the entire book was done in the midst of the terrific conflict, and the book has captured the very atmosphere of the Western Front.

This Scotchman is a poet at heart. There are in his book flashes that tremble in vividness against the tremendous black background. And at the end the reader will know more of what war is than he ever knew before, unless he already has been at the heart of the greatest event of modern times.

BATTERING THE BOCHE. By Preston Gibson, author of "The Turning Point," etc. 16mo, 100 pages. Illustrated from photographs. Price $1.00

A brilliant, dramatic, thrilling account of Fighting on the West Front.

The book describes the emotions of a man arriving for the first time at the Front; describes the effects of the various gases used by the Germans, the conditions of the roads, camouflage, observation posts, dugouts, trenches, etc.; tells about the movement of troops, the morale of the French Army, etc., etc.

THE WONDERS OF INSTINCT: CHAPTERS IN THE PSYCHOLOGY OF INSECTS. By Jean-Henri Fabre. Royal octavo, 318 pages. 16 illustrations. Uniform with "Social Life in the Insect World." Price $3.00

A work of Fabre's celebrated old age when, with undimmed eye and with his lifelong passion for scientific truth unabated, he viewed the vast world of the insect kingdom in the light of a mellow philosophy and a radiant affection. In no other work has Fabre more charmingly displayed the qualities of mind and heart that have made him immortal.

The Outlook says: "The ripest knowledge and most winning charm of Fabre's observation may be found in these records of insect psychology, family life, and habits in peace and war."

RUSSIA IN UPHEAVAL. By Edward Alsworth Ross. Octavo, 300 pages. 80 illustrations. Uniform with the same author's "South of Panama" and "The Changing Chinese." Price $2.50

No living American is so well prepared as Professor Ross to present, not only the revolution itself, but its origins in the past and its probable results in the future. He visited not only Petrograd and Moscow, but also the Volga, the Caucasus, Turkestan, and Siberia. "Russia in Upheaval" is the ripe harvest of these varied experiences. It discusses the Overthrow of Autocracy, the New Freedom in Russia, Soil Hunger and Land Redistribution, Labor and Capital in Russia, the Casting Out of Vodka, Russian Women and Their Outlook, the Church and the Sects, the Coöperative Movement in Russia, the Zemstvos and How They Built a State Within a State, and the Future of Emigration from Russia.

Zone Policeman 88. Franck 31

NO other war has had such a contemporary pictorial record as Louis Raemaekers is supplying for this one. He is admittedly the supreme artistic genius discovered and developed by the war. Capturing the very movement and color of colossal history in the making, he is creating a unique record that will be as invaluable in the future as it is stimulating now. The following three of his books are now available for American purchasers:

AMERICA IN THE WAR

One hundred drawings, reproduced in color, having reference to America's participation in the modern crusade. Each cartoon faced by a page of text by such distinguished Americans as William Dean Howells, Admiral Peary, James W. Gerard, etc. Quarto, boxed. Price $5.00.

KULTUR IN CARTOONS

One hundred drawings, each of full-page size, and each reproduced in color with a hundred pages of supplementary and explanatory text by G. K. Chesterton, Eden Phillpotts, Sidney Lee, etc. Quarto, boxed. Price $5.00.

RAEMAEKERS' CARTOON HISTORY OF THE WAR

The first volume in a series of four containing the great cartoonist's war drawings in chronological order. One hundred drawings and one hundred pages of text. Quarto. Price $1.50.

BOSTON TRANSCRIPT

"If the measure of the influence wielded by a cartoonist is the extent and intensity of the emotion aroused by his work, then possibly there has never been a cartoonist in the history of the world who can be compared with Raemaekers. . . Dante's mantle has fallen upon Raemaekers. He guides the spirit and the conscience of the world today through an Inferno of wrong."

NEW YORK TIMES

"The history of the war is printed in letters of fire by these deeply emotional drawings, which convey intensified feeling as time passes and the plots thicken."

THE HOUSE OF TORCHY.

Illustrated by Arthur William Brown. Net, $1.50

Torchy, the youth with more intimate friends than any other in America. Have you ever tried to discover why Torchy is the most popular hero in American fiction? To say that he is the best beloved is merely another way of putting it. His rich, crisp humor, his cheery audacity, his sheer joy in meeting life's inevitable trouble—these help, of course, because they make him more interesting; but the real reason is his unselfish, whole-souled kindliness, and his entire competence in finding out the right thing to do and doing it. The combination of nobility of soul, hair-trigger intelligence and an unplumbed sense of humor is rare in this world. These things made TORCHY really great.

SHORTY McCABE LOOKS 'EM OVER.

Illustrated by F. Vaux Wilson. Net, $1.35

With two characters, Shorty McCabe and Torchy, with which he has alternated through a long series of sketches, Sewell Ford has won the distinction of being regarded as Mark Twain's legitimate successor as chief of American humorists.

There are many writers who are humorous, and more who are just funny, but there is not one whose humor is so spontaneous as Ford's. Added to this, he gives to his main characters a kindly philosophy which has made many thousands of readers watch for their periodical appearance.—Los Angeles Express.

CHEER-UP LETTERS. From a Private with Pershing.
Illustrated by B. M. Dennis. Net, $1.25

The sunny side of war, as told by one who insists on seeing it that way. The writer is an author's son who has been a private in Pershing's army since June, 1917, and at or near the front in France for many months.

In these cheery letters he tells the folks at home all about it; from the midnight march out of training camp to a stroll over a fresh battlefield; tells it simply, directly, and with a never failing sense of humor. No thrills, no horrors. Just the day-to-day doings of a staff car driver who doesn't care much for soldiering but is bound to make the best of it.

By FRANK FROEST

By EDWARD LANKOW

HOW TO BREATHE RIGHT. With 23 illustrations showing the various exercises. Net, $1.00

Endorsed by U. S. Army Officers

Edward Lankow is not the first to write a book about breathing, but he is the first to give full, clear, precise, definite instructions on this vital matter.

"Breathe like an opera singer" is, in short, the slogan which Mr. Lankow would have every one, singer or not, remember and practise.

"What we eat is," Mr. Lankow tells us in this practical handbook "of secondary importance." It is on breath—rightly called "the breath of life"—that pure blood, and consequently health, depends.

Mr. Lankow would have schools for training in the development of breath control, for happiness as well as a good digestion, physical strength as well as mental power and strong nerves—all depend on knowing how to breathe right. Begin today to breathe like an opera singer. Mr. Lankow shows you how in this book. It's for everybody.

Trade List and Catalog of the Cornhill Company

Including a List of Books to be Published During the Season

1918

THE CORNHILL COMPANY
69 Cornhill Boston, Mass.

IMPORTANT

In ordering books from this Catalog, when a remittance accompanies the order, a sufficient amount should be added to the price of the books to cover transportation charges, and whenever possible the customers should specify whether books are to be sent by parcels post or express.

Announcing a List of Books of Distinction for the Season of 1918, Published by the Cornhill Company at Sixty-nine Cornhill, Boston, Mass.

Ballygullion

By Lynn Doyle, author of "Mr. Wildridge of the Bank." 12mo., illustrated, bound in cloth, gold stamping. Price $1.50.

This book is an adequate reflection of Irish peasant life, depicted in a whimsical and humorous fashion, and is the brightest and most humorous collection of short stories for the year.

If Ballygullion were not a descriptive title, Neighborhood Stories might well have given a name to the tales, — each distinct in itself, but bound to the others by the connecting link of locality and the indescribable style of the author, who has "a sweet Irish way" with his pen. The characters stand out as humanly lovable; there is a laugh on every page.

The Daily Chronicle says: — "For several generations Ireland had not given us a genuine humorist till the advent of Lynn Doyle." The date of publication is October 1.

The Dream Maker

By Helen Fitzgerald Sanders. 12mo., bound in cloth, gold stamping. Price $1.50.

One of the most prominent critics who has read the advance sheets of "The Dream Maker," has pronounced Mrs. Sanders' romance of American life the best book he has read this year. The plot is a decidedly worth while one and the writer's style is delightful. All in all, we feel that "The Dream Maker" is a real contribution to American literature. The date of publication is September 16.

A Daughter of the Northwest

By Irene Welch Grissom. 12mo., bound in cloth, gold stamping. Price $1.50.

In its vivid descriptions and local coloring the book interprets the true spirit of the Northwest, and the author emphasizes once more her right to a place in the group of virile writers of the West. The author has written a picturesque meaning into man's struggle to bend nature to his own needs and also his worthy intention of restoring the lands that he devastates. This is all done with clearness and vigor. With the forests, rich with aromatic fragrance, as a background, with the rush of great rivers and the misty outline of mountains, the story is Romance wandering in woodland paths; and interwoven with the fascinating, wholesome love story is the spirit of the great lumber industry written, as it should be, by one who knows and loves it. The date of publication is September 16.

The Medicine Way of the Pale Faces

By Marion Reid Girardot. 12mo., bound in cloth, gold stamping. Price $1.50.

Mrs. Girardot has written a book of even higher merit than "Steve of the Bar G Ranch" and the success of this earlier work should be duplicated by the present volume. It is a romance of the Overland Trail, the great highway to the Pacific, set in the days of its greatest glories and in the pages one lives anew the stirring life of the hardy adventurers who over the long, weary Medicine Way struggled on to the conquest of the West. The date of publication is November 1.

The Pawns of Fate

By Paul E. Bowers. 12mo., bound in cloth, gold stamping. Price $1.50.

A novel teeming with psychological facts and first-hand information, from the pen of an author who has made criminology a life-long study. Dr. Bowers organized the Indiana Hospital for Insane Criminals in 1911 and he has been physician-in-charge of that institution and of the Indiana State Prison since that time. In the laboratories of these institutions he has examined many thousand criminals; he has also been a generous contributor to scientific journals and has written many monographs on criminology and abnormal psychology.

In "The Pawns of Fate" the reader is given the life story of a criminal, but the tale is brightened with the hopeful and contrasting characters that stand as a background to the more sombre pictures. The sunshine and shade of city life and political conditions are ably depicted, and the author points out in a relentless way the inequalities of life. He traces evil tendencies back to the guilt of ancestors; to him, degeneracy is the result of broken physical law; in the weak and erring he discovers malformation; through the alchemy of motherhood he finds hidden influences that wreck a life but lie too deep for the casual observer. The book is enthralling fiction written into scientific fact, but above all a book to make men think. The date of publication is September 4.

Looking Forward—A Study in Social Justice

By Isaac Roberts. 12mo., bound in red library buckram, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

A readable book treating of timely vital public questions of the day, looking to co-operation as the solution of economic difficulties and as the only just and peaceable means of settlement of disputes between labor and capital.

" To be welcomed as a sincere and thoughtful addition to the literature advocating the co-operative idea."—The Springfield Republican.

" Readable, timely and helpful." — The Chicago Record-Herald.

SIX NEW BOOKS OF CORNHILL PLAYS

In this list of plays we have endeavored to have represented the best contemporary work in American dramatic composition. The volumes are uniform in size (12 mo.) and are bound in boards with Genuine Hand-Made Lombardia covers with a cover design of unusual interest. They are published at the uniform price of $1.25 per volume.

Passion Playlets, by John Jex

A striking collection of playlets including "Violet Souls," "The Nest," "Mr. Willoughby Calls," and "The Unnecessary Atom." It is doubtful if a more representative collection of one-act plays has been offered for a long while. The date of publication is September 16.

Her Brother's Code, by Daniel Bror Sorlin

A drama in four acts. The play, as its title implies, shows the double standard of morality. The dialogue and characters in the situation are of far more than usual interest. The date of publication is September 4.

The Natural Incentive, by Elise West Quaife

In "The Natural Incentive Mrs. Quaife has given us a play of unusual literary merit dealing with one of the greatest problems of life. The situation and characters are handled with sureness and skill. A book which the hundreds of admirers of Mrs. Quaife's work will be glad to see on their library shelves. The date of publication is September 16.

The Pink Deetees, by Edward F. Flynn

An amusing original and thoroughly unique play that will hold the reader's interest from the first to the last page. Incidentally the reader will have spent a pleasant evening and enjoyed many a good laugh before the book is laid aside. The date of publication is October 15.

Robert Burns, by Edward Winslow Gilliam

The romantic life of Scotland's great bard in a dramatic setting. There is nothing artifical in the drama. The leading events of Burns' career are drawn historically correct, although in place of his unseemly and lamentable end the final scene closes on the plowman poet's Edinburgh triumph in the salon of the Duchess of Gordon. The date of publication is November 1.

The Test, by Peter Hagbold

A timely well-written play dealing with the problem of the American manufacturer and German employees. It has won the hearty endorsement of earnest, professional critics. The date of publication is October 15.

Fifty Years and Other Poems

By James Weldon Johnson, with an Introduction by Brander Matthews. 12mo., Paper sides, cloth back. Price $1.25.

This volume includes the poem " Fifty Years " so widely quoted and admired when it was published in The New York Times four years ago. Mr. Johnson sings of a variety of themes with the same unerring touch as in the titular poem. There is a group devoted to Latin-American life called " Down by the Carib Sea," and a group of "Folk Runes," pieces in dialect of the pathetic and humorous aspect of Negro life.

" It is a striking thing." — Theodore Roosevelt.

"There is a feeling in it and rhythm and dignity. I am glad I have read it." —Elihu Root.

" I have read the thrilling verses entitled ' Fifty Years ' and cannot forbear expressing my delight in them. They have all the swing and rhythm of some of Kipling's most stirring imperialistic verses and are not marred, as many of his are, by a grossly materialistic philosophy." — Elbridge L. Adams.

Chamber Music

By James Joyce. 16mo., bound in cloth, gold stamping. Price $1.00.

This is the first American edition of the poems by the author of "The Portrait of an Artist as a Young Man " and " Dubliners." Arthur Symons, the noted English critic, reviewing these poems in the London Spectator, praised their exquisite quality of feeling and rare perfection of form. Fragile and delicate as Mr. Joyce's workmanship is, his songs and lyrics are of a substance which reveal a subtle imagination and a glowing vision.

Paved Streets

By Elias Lieberman. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

There are few followers of the poetry of the day who are not familiar with Mr. Lieberman's work. From thousands of platforms and pulpits, ranging from the halls of Congress itself to the humble grange meeting in the little country town, the sturdy ringing words of "I Am An American" are bringing new inspiration to and kindling new patriotism in the hearts of those who hear them,— and "I Am An American" is only one of many splendid poems included in this collection.

Children of the Sun

Rhapsodies and Poems. By Wallace Gould. 8vo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back. Price $1.25.

In free rhythms, Mr. Gould writes his rhapsodies and poems, and they will strike the reader as the most original and distinctive pieces in contemporary American literature. Both the force and the impressive imagination of the Slav are in this book, written by a New Englander of the purest stock. One of the rhapsodies tells an Indian legend, another a modern story of friendship with thrilling details; the poems in free rhythms deal with the sensuous and spiritual forces of life and nature.

The Divine Image: A Book of Lyrics.

By Caroline Giltinan. 16mo., bound in boards, paper sides and cloth back, stamped in gold. Price $1.25.

Seldom has an author's first book met with the splendid reception accorded to this little volume. The themes deal with life and nature, love and faith, joy and pain; they are raptures caught in a shimmering net of words, simple and fresh and musical. Miss Giltinan's verse is akin in mood and aspiration to Blake and Francis Thompson.

" The poems have sincerity, and freedom from affectation. They don't strain after effect." — Bliss Carman.

" The little poem called ' Dread ' has a power and tragic force quite of its own. . . . Two poems here seem to me really remarkable: I mean ' A Woman's Prayer ' and ' Cost.' The latter closes with a line which in its devout-profane daring seems to me quite unquestionably beautiful — what audacity and yet what exquisite feeling! O you have the real gift. Believe me, there are not many who could have written ' Cost.' But the masterpiece, which is really the most beautiful of all, is the ' Cry of the Childless.' That is worthy of Thomas Hardy. I have never read anything on that subject equal to it." — John Cowper Powys.

" Here is a first volume of more than common interest, and I think of quite notable vitality in feeling and expression. This passionate sincerity has set its seal upon all the poems, whether spiritual, fanciful or very human in subject, uniting and ever seizing things which, save to the poet's quick imagination, seem far apart. For is it not the poet's select privilege to remind us we may not

' stir a flower
Without troubling of a star,' and that Common Clay was created expressly to bear the imprint of the Divine Image? " — Katherine Brégy.

The Heart of a Woman and Other Poems

By Georgia Douglas Johnson, with an Introduction by William Stanley Braithwaite. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

A volume of delicate poems revealing the heart of a woman. In all her life of dream and experience she speaks to us. The poems are brief, holding much of music and passion in a small cup of speech. Their appeal is unmistakable.

Eight Harvard Poets, a Collection

12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, stamped in crimson. Price $1.25.

A collection of sixty-four poems selected from the work of eight of the more promising of the younger Harvard poets, E. Estlen Cummings, S. Foster Damon, J. R. Dos Cassos, Robert Hillyer, R. S. Mitchell, William A. Norris, Dudley Poore, and Cuthbert Wright.

Sonnets of the Strife and Songs

By Robert Loveman, with a Foreword by John Burroughs. Small 12mo., bound in boards, paper labels. Price $1.00.

Robert Loveman is known to every lover of real poetry in America. Since Tennyson and Longfellow no poem has been so widely quoted as the "Rain Song" — whose haunting refrain, "It isn't raining rain to me" once read or heard is never forgotten. In his present volume there is the same charm and beauty that has characterized his books in the past, for if the poet moved by the present crisis has written on more serious themes these are still lyrics with all their old-time grace and charm.

Miscellaneous Moods in Verse

By Elihu Vedder. One hundred and one poems with forty-five illustrations from new and unpublished drawings. Bound in boards, paper sides and cloth back, stamped in gold. Price $2.50.

Elihu Vedder, considered by many the greatest genius in American art, is best known popularly for his wonderful illustrations of Omar Khayyam. These virile and vigorous verses produced by Vedder since passing the three-quarter century mark will appeal as much to the "Man in the Street" as to the æsthetic reader.

From the Heart of a Folk, a Book of Poems

By Waverley Turner Carmichael. With an introduction by Professor James H. Hanford. Bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, stamped in gold. Price $1.00.

Not since Paul Laurence Dunbar has there appeared a poet of his race with the understanding, and the gift to express in appealing lyric verse, the heart of his people. An immense popularity is predicted for Mr. Carmichael. One has only to read Professor Hanford's enthusiastic introduction to this collection to get a foretaste of the effect these dialect verses will make upon the reader. At last in this poet, the mantle of Dunbar, so long unworn, fits becomingly.

The Red Laugh

By Gervé Baronti. 12mo., bound in board, paper sides, cloth back. Cover design by Georges Musaphia. Price $1.25.

Timely in its war spirit, the lines, "The Red Laugh," gives a name to a notable collection of vital and individual verses. The author has duplicated the success of her first book, "A Modern Phenix," and she shows a mastery over the lyrical and metrical requirements of exact versification. Miss Baronti is versatile, and all her poems ring with sincerity, while many hold a fine illumination of spirit.

Light and Mist

By Katharine Adams. 16mo., bound in boards, gold stamping. Price $1.00.

Of Miss Adams' previous volume of verse, the Boston Transcript commended its " fugitive wistfulness and simplicity " as most appealing. In this new collection these same qualities are present, and with them a more self-confident and finished expression. The poet is in possession of that indefinable essence called the " lyric gift." Thought, feeling, mood are fused in her to produce what is lovely — a poem. Her themes are mostly personal, but they spring from many sources of experience with nature, friendship, the war — and an intimate knowledge of, and love for, the scenes and people of Ireland.

Romance and the West and Falling Petals

Two Ballads by John Preston. Bound in boards, paper labels. Price $0.75.

The first a lively description of a Westerner's search for the girl in an Eastern city, and the second a reminiscence of unusual character concerning a girl in the land of Evangeline.

The poems flow along musically smooth, with a touch of urbanity that is growing stale in so much of the older work. Since "Point Lace and Diamonds" few books have appeared of clean, wholesome and entertaining verse which tells something of a human story and at the same time is so full of delightful artistic touches.

The Modern Comedy and Other Poems

By O. R. Howard Thomson, author of "Resurgam: Poems and Lyrics." 12mo., paper boards. Price $1.25.

"The sonnets in the Modern Comedy are beautiful in workmanship and of a substance which recalls Meredith's sequence. The verses 'En Route,' the poem on Bergson and his philosophy, the poem 'In Williamsport' suggested by Rupert Brooks' 'Grantchester' and many of the lyrics, show indisputable poetic talents of a high order."—William Stanley Braithwaite.

The Fairy Islands and Other Poems

By Valley Flower. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, silk cloth back, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

A volume of poems that shows a decided gift of imagination and a fine musical sense. The author's interests cover a wide range of subjects, which she visualizes with clear and vivid sense of their poetic value. Between the poet's intense love of nature and her affectionate understanding of children, are a number of themes that possess compelling charm. The response to the collection by poetry lovers will, we think, be genuine and wide.

The Cycles

Theme by Seneca G. Lewis. Interpretative Verse by C. P. McDonald. Bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back. Price $1.25.

This rare bit of literature, first privately printed for a few of the author's personal friends, has hitherto been inaccessible to the general reader. It is with real pleasure that we offer it to all who love the high sentiments of a natural philosophy expressed with exquisite craftsmanship.

"I have read with compelling interest 'The Cycles,' by Mr. Seneca G. Lewis and Mr. C. P. McDonald, and do not hesitate to say that of the many attempts to reproduce the finish of Fitzgerald's Omar, none are superior and few equal this one. It is certainly a worth-while book and one which ought to be widely circulated."—William Stanley Braithwaite.

A Modern Phenix

A Play in Four Acts. By Gervé Baronti, with a cover design by Georges Musaphia 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides and silk cloth back. Price $1.25.

This is a play of ideas dealing with the redemption of a woman through the philosophy of forgetting. The characters are drawn with a clear and firm conception, they live in action and emotional experience. The dramatist's style is simple and graceful.

"It is what every drama should be—a transcript, or like a transcript, from real life. It has a purpose and yet the purpose is not conveyed by any preachment: it is suggested by the context."—Nathan Haskell Dole.

The Message of the Trees

An Anthology of Leaves and Branches. Selected and arranged by Maud Cuney Hare, with a Foreword by William Stanley Braithwaite. 8vo., special cloth binding, gold stamping and special end papers. Price $2.00.

If you have delighted in E. V. Lucas' "The Open Road" you will find delight in this charming collection of prose and verse about trees. The selections are chosen from a wide range of eminent authors, and grouped under the following captions: "The Leafy World," "The Message of the Trees," "Alphabet of Trees," "From Brown Boughs Breaking," "Talking Branches and Whispering Leaves," "Far from the Madding Crowd," "The Philosophy of Leaves," "The Patriarchs of Time," "Incense of Thought up Leafy Naves," "Comforts and Consolations," "The Treasury of the Year," and "Bare Ruin'd Choirs."

The Lover's Rosary

By Brookes More. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

A splendid sonnet sequence which is bound to take its place among the finest in our language. There could be no more fitting volume to send as a remembrance to some well-loved friend. The date of publication is September 15.

Rhymes of a Red Cross Nurse

By Brookes More. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back. With illustrations, cover and jacket by P. J. Moynahan. Price $1.35.

A book of stirring war ballads, each of which tells in verse a real story. "Sweet Maggie McGee," "Jacques Mallaise," The "Glory of Phelim O'Toole" and "The Crows on the Marne" will be remembered long after the great body of the poetry of The War is forgotten. The illustrations are in keeping with the text. The date of publication is September 16.

Gargoyles

By Howard Mumford Jones. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

The many readers who have recognized in Mr. Jones' published verses the handiwork of a real poet will welcome the opportunity to obtain them in permanent form. There is a force and virility behind the excellent craftmanship that will win for "Gargoyles" a place among the distinctive books of the year. The date of publication is September 16.

Poems

By E. Marie Sinclair. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back. Price $1.25.

This collection of verses represents dreams and moods that are both gay and sombre. The writer sees a deeper meaning in apparently inconsequent things and dormant impulses waiting at the threshold of existence. Unlike many poets who draw a softening shade of unreality and glamour over the commonplace, the author has been inclined to lift that veil and to seek the hidden truths of life. Where love is the theme there is directness, simplicity and music in Miss Sinclair's lines. The date of publication is September 4.

Voices from the Valley

By Warren Wood. 12 mo., bound in cloth. Price $1.25.

This is a book of moods and reflection. As in all true and inspirational work, the author has leaned upon no one nor upon any confines of form, but has chosen a versification that suits his own individuality. A sympathetic understanding of nature and her mysteries is a distinguishing quality of the author's craftsmanship; he has caught some of these hidden mysteries and held them captive in lines of exquisite grace. With music and rhythm he wins us away to a realm of sweet unreality.

Humanity or Hate

By Harvey Carson Grumbine, 12mo., bound in cloth with a special cover design and jacket, by P. J. Moynahan Price $1.25.

This is a book which it is the duty of every man, woman and child to read if they would understand the soul and the spirit of the German people and of our French Allies. With the conviction that the spirit of a nation is adequately expressed by its poets, Professor Grumbine has made a masterly and discriminating comparison between the war songs of Germany and those of France. In addition to Professor Grumbine's able essay over 60 of the actual war songs themselves are included in the book and show in a strong and contrasting light the blind fury and venomous hatred which inspires even the greatest of the German writers and the fine spirit of liberty, humanity and sacrifice which is alive in every line of the war songs of France.

Rediscoveries

By Richard D. Ware. 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

A book of poems that is almost unique and certain to greatly enlarge the circle of those who appreciate Mr. Ware's work. Strong writing, keen thinking, bitter irony, delicious satire are interwoven in the forceful, clever lines of his verses. A book which will be quoted and reread. The date of publication is September 4.

Rhymes in Khaki

By F. B. Camp. 12mo., bound in Khaki cloth, special stamping. Price $1.00.

Written by a soldier who has been through the mill and who has the poet's vision to see and record the humor and the pathos of the life around about him. Mr. Camp's first book sold into the thousands, and the material in "Rhymes in Khaki" is even better. The date of publication is September 4.

The Band of Gideon and Other Lyrics

By Joseph Seamon Cotter, Jr., with an introduction by Cale Young Rice. 12mo., bound in board, paper sides, cloth back, gold stamped. Price $1.00.

"To the public the interest that these verses will have — apart from their merit and the gallant spirit in which they are written — lies in this: the Negro race, which has always been able to ease its heart with melody and folk song, is beginning to look upon words, also, as a medium of expression for its deeper and finer emotions. Paul Laurence Dunbar and James Weldon Johnson are perhaps the most distinguished of those who have entered the field of poetry, but perhaps if health is restored to Joseph S. Cotter, Jr., he also may later find himself ranking with these two of his predecessors." — From the Introduction.

Songs of Manhattan

By Morris Abel Beer. 12mo. Bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back, gold stamping. Price $1.25.

"My mind still carries a pleasant memory of the thought and musical flow of these verses."—Edwin Markam.

" The verses have old-fashioned merits that I prize,— rhythm first of all, and then sanity, symplicity and clarity." — Brander Matthews.

Twenty-five Years in the Black Belt

By William J. Edwards, with an introduction by Professor Paul H. Hanus of Harvard University. 12mo., illustrated. Price, $1.50.

More gripping than fiction, this book interprets the soul of a race as well as the vision and life labors of the author, who is the founder of the Snow Hill Normal and Industrial Institute. The book is a valuable contribution to a formidable subject, demonstrating that the book education of the negro should be articulated into the activities of his home and community.

Mr. Edwards is a graduate of Tuskegee, and his book is prophetic; it goes far toward answering the pertinent questions, what is to be the political future of the twelve millions of people not long out of slavery, and what part are they to play in the world's struggle for Democracy? The date of publicaeion is September 4.

John Brown, Soldier of Fortune, a Critique

By Hill Peebles Wilson, 8vo. Bound in cloth, gold stamping, illustrated. Price, $2.50.

Frankly a critique, as its title indicates, the book lays before the reader historical data and documentary evidence the result of long years of research. John Brown is presented as the man that he was, not as the mythological being it has pleased so many of our writers to depict. Every student who wishes the truth of the stormy times preceding our great civil conflict, should be familiar with this book.

The Normal Hygiene of the Ten Year Old Child

By Theodore C. Merrill. 12mo., illustrated by charts and diagrams, bound in cloth. Price $1.00.

This book which is the first of a series by Dr. Merrill fills a long-felt want. For the teacher or the parent it is invaluable and any one of the bits of information or numerous suggestions contained within its pages put into practice will pay many times over the slight cost of the book. The date of publication is November 1.

Cape Split Chickens

By Nellie Clayton Nash, with numerous illustrations and a cover in colors by Mabel Rollins Harris. Wide 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back. Price $1.00.

A captivating juvenile, written in the intimate and conversational style that is beloved by children. The writer leaves the plane of the "grown-ups" and comes down to that of the children; she glorifies the life of the barnyard fowl, and, into the story of that feathered community, she weaves romance, adventure, intrigue and, even, — a moral which is left for the young reader to discover.

Miss Nash's success is due to her understanding of children — their interests, their whims and desires. Like a true story-teller she makes Banty Hen, Yellow Legs and Black Boots real personages.

Cape Split Ducklings

By Nellie Clayton Nash, with numerous illustrations and a cover in colors. Uniform with Cape Split Chickens. Wide 12mo., bound in boards, paper sides, cloth back. Price $1.00.

This book comes as an answer to the insistent demand of children, "Tell us another story!" The Ducklings are near neighbors of the Cape Split Chickens and, like them, they are real people, with real joys and sorrows in their fluffy breasts, and their little waddling feet carry them into paths of righteousness as well as paths of adventure. Their annals are entertaining — wholesome, readable and lively. The date of publication is October 1.

Tommy No and His Three Pennies

By F. G. I. Square 16mo., bound in boards, paper sides, pasted label. Price $0.75.

Those who were privileged to make friends with this small person, through the medium of the privately and too limited edition, will be glad to know that the interesting young character is ready to make a bow to a larger audience and to take a greater number of friends into his circle of acquaintances. Somewhere there are little friends who would like to know Tommy, and if you are not too worldly wise you will like Tommy, too. The date of publication is October 1.

John Gilpin

A unique edition of Cowper's famous poem, illustrated with genuine wood-cuts of delightful absurdity and crudeness, the work of Robert Seaver. Bound in crude paper boards, with a pasted label, this book resembles a genuine seventeenth century chap-book. Price per copy, 25 cents.

Ye Butcher, Ye Baker, Ye Candle-Stick Maker

Uniform in size and binding with the John Gilpin. It describes the old-time craftsmen at their occupations, and in witty, satirical verse points out how they resemble or differ from modern folk. Verses and original wood-cuts by Robert Seaver. Price per copy, 25 cents.

The following have been included from the list of Alfred Bartlett, who for so many years published beautiful editions from this office. For attractive books, which express the discriminating thought of the giver, they are still unsurpassed:

A DESCRIPTION OF JESUS. This document was copied from a letter written to the people of Rome by Publius Lentullus, President of Judea, during the reign of Tiberius Cæsar. The original has been traced to the ninth century. This is a true block-book, a book printed entirely from hand-lettered blocks, no movable type being employed. The artist, Mr. W. A. Dwiggins, has cast the text, title-page and cover in a severe classic mould, supplementing the simple and ancient style of the epistle. Beauty of Every Day. By J. R. MILLER. A whole-souled argument showing how the common days may be made beautiful and giving advice on the true enlarging of life.

Evening Thoughts. By J. R. MILLER. One-page talks based on selected verses of Scripture, which may be followed day by day as a brief evening devotion.

Every Day of Life. By J. R. MILLER. It is the every days that test us. This book shows how they may be made beautiful.

Wider Life. By J. R. MILLER. The call of Christianity is for men reaching up to their very best and out to their broadest.

BOOKS BY ORISON SWETT MARDEN

Orison Swett Marden's inspirational and efficiency books are famous the world over, and are praised by men and women in every station of life, from toiling clerks to rulers of great nations. The reason is that each reader finds in them much that is personally useful and helpful. The author does not theorize, but tells how to achieve success by showing how others have achieved it. He presents more concrete examples than are to be found in the books of any other single writer. The volumes are the fruit of many years of thought and labor. They are helpful and fascinating.

Leading libraries list it with the most desirable reading for children, and a Western authority ranks it as 'literature of the first order.' The scene of the story is laid among the rocks and flowers and snows of the Alps, and the narrative concerns the life of a little girl, who lives there in her grandfather's humble cottage." — Hartford Courant.

ALL the old favorites, that have been told for many generations are here, such as Alladin, Cinderella, Sleeping Beauty, The Goose Girl, Three Bears, Sinbad, Tom Thumb, and others of the favorite children's classics. These absorbing stories awaken the imaginative faculty of the child and give it a hunger for the real wonders of the world. Stories that have stood the test of centuries have a psychological value that no others can give. They are a preparation for the coming appreciation of literature. The dull and sordid world of fact can be endured and surpassed largely as we can dream, and the dreaming faculty is begun in the stories most appreciated by children.

ANYTHING that interests the ingenuity of a child and develops its sense of humor is awakening one of the most useful faculties of the mind. This is done in the Game of Mother Goose. The child learns to place the ideas in the right relation and gets the humor out of the mistakes in the game. In cutting out the cards, skill and neatness are taught, and so, mechanical skill is added to the practical values of this interesting and artistic book. AS indicated by its title the "Fluffidown" Series of Rag Books is produced in an entirely novel style on a cloth with a rich fluffy surface as soft as down.

The cold pages and hard corners so objectionable in a paper book are quite absent and give place to a warm, cosy "feel" in a book which can be squeezed and cuddled without damage.

The same instinct which prompts a child to stroke an animal's furry coat will cause it to love a Dean's "Fluffidown" Rag Book (which is full of animals) more than any other.

As in the ordinary Dean's Rag Books, the colors are Fast, Washable and Hygienic, the books having been awarded the Silver Sealed Certificate of the Incorporated Institute of Hygiene, London (Eng.).

TERNATIONAL ENCYCLOPÆDIA. THE NEW. Second Edition 1916. Edited by FRANK MOORE COLBY, M.A., and TALCOTT WILLIAMS, LL.D., L.H.D., Litt.D. Assisted by nearly 500 editors and contributors.

The new Second Edition now ready contains all the excellent features which at once made the first edition a Standard Authority in libraries and educational institutions throughout the country. To gain quick and reliable information regarding the work, there is no better way than to ask the librarian of your public library. He will tell you that while the first edition was more widely used than any other reference work, the Second Edition is in still greater demand. This edition is much more than a mere revision. It is practically a new work, for every article has been critically examined and enlarged when necessary or replaced by an entirely new article. The whole work has been reset from first to last, the page made somewhat larger, the number of volumes increased from 21 to 24 (including the Courses of Reading and Study) and printed from new plates on thin paper—not too thin, but making the volume easy to handle and to leaf, and although twenty per cent. of material has been added, the shelf-space occupied has been much reduced. The work contains about 30,000 articles (30,000 more than any other encyclopædia); there are 100 full-page color plates, 250 half-tone photographic reproductions, 450 duotints, making in all about 7,500 separate illustrations, besides about 20,000 text-cuts, charts and diagrams. The work is brought down to the closing months of 1916 and thus covers the new knowledge in which the past decade has been so fruitful. It also includes a 75-page article on the "War in Europe." The New International will be supplied either on regular paper or on special thin paper. Sold by subscription only. For particulars address our Subscription Department.

The object of this new popular series is to provide a bright, chatty description of the various localities, which shall teach the visitor what he should see and appreciate, and generally awaken his interest in the romance of his surroundings. This description, together with the beautiful illustrations, provide a book which every lover of his particular district will like to keep and treasure. The illustrations have been provided by Mr. E. W. Haslehust, who has been hailed in the press as a water-colorist of the first rank. The text has been written by authors thoroughly conversant with the localities.

NORTHCLIFFE: BRITAIN'S MAN OF POWER

"There is not one page in "Northcliffe: Britain's Man of Power" that is not in one sense or another a valuable contribution to the history of our time.

"Mr. Carson has done his work well. His book will remain a notable one and he has done full justice to his hero. His subject, however, was an inspiring one. So far Lord Northcliffe stands alone. His broad vision of journalism, his bold daring, his phenomenal keenness, combined with an intelligent respect for standards and enlightened patriotism, make of him a unique personality in which may be found the very triumph of individualism."—The Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

MORRIS, A. T., and CARTON MOOREPARK

OLD FRIENDS AND NEW FABLES

The fables in which animals are the chief actors have never lost their savor. Other forms of literature have their brief periods of popularity, but the fable is evidently for all time. Perhaps it is the children themselves who have conferred this immortality upon the fable. They never grow tired of stories the characters in which consist of their old friends in the animal kingdom. That experienced and sympathetic writer, Alice Talwin Morris, has written a delightful set of new fables, which have been illustrated by Carton Moorepark, who may be said to have an international reputation for his treatment of animal and nature studies. This large book with its mounted colored illustrations and its interesting animal stories will appeal to children of all ages. Illustrated with 24 fully colored plates of animals by Carton Moorepark.

RANDALL, JOHN HERMAN

THE PHILOSOPHY OF POWER OR WHAT TO LIVE FOR

The demand of the 20th century is not so much for new beliefs as for actual knowledge. While there will always be a place in human life for speculative thought and as long as one thinks at all for one's self, he must formulate some philosophy of life, still what every man must live by is the knowledge born out of actual experience. With the crumbling of the old traditional creeds, there will continue to come ever new and fresh restatements of the basic truths of life. But the need of the hour is for a formulation of the practical principles which everyday experience has demonstrated to be most effective in bringing life to the fullness of all its latent powers.

In his new book, "The Philosophy of Power," Dr. Randall attempts such a formulation of principles, apart from all doctrinal questions of speculative interest. It might be regarded as the Creed of the practical man who cares little about theology or dogma, and yet who is conscious of a need of some practical working philosophy for life.

THE LIFE OF REALITY

In these days of great personal perplexities, and gigantic world-problems, every thoughtful man and woman is earnestly bent upon the search for reality. Out of the din of conflicting voices, out of the chaotic confusion of clashing opinions, one question emerges supreme over all. Amid all the deceptive appearances of life and in spite of life's disillusionments, is there such a thing as Reality, to which our human gropings may lead? Can it be found and experienced in the daily storm and stress of life, and if so, what is the pathway by which man may approach and live "the life that is life indeed"?

Dr. Randall firmly believes that such a real life is possible to every man, and in the chapters of this book he seeks to point out the sources and nature of that Reality for which, since the world began, every soul has been searching either consciously or unconsciously, the various paths of experience through which one moves toward the great discovery, and the resulting freedom and power in the life of the individual, who has attained the soul's supreme quest.

RANDALL—(Continued)

HUMANITY AT THE CROSS-ROADS

The writer believes that the true ideals of any people grow out of its actual philosophy of life and its conception of religion. Organized religion to-day has failed to grasp the significance of the new truth and seems powerless to furnish the vital forms of expression through which the resurging life shall find adequate and living manifestation. Can religion regain its lost leadership and give to the world the great ethical and spiritual dynamic demanded in the new age now dawning?

ARMANDE. By Edmond and Jules de Goncourt. Translated by Alfred E. Haserick and with an introduction by W. D. Orcutt.

Of the Brothers Goncourt, Victor Hugo says, "Charming writers, two minds from which spring a single jet of genius." Armande is their masterpiece.

A tale of an Indian maiden, charmingly written by one who in the old colonial days traversed the solitary wilds of North America, and who is a lover of nature and Indian lore.

BALLAD OF READING GAOL. By Oscar Wilde.

Only when neglected and despised, ill and miserable, did sincere feeling bring forth in Oscar Wilde his one great poem, "The Ballad of Reading Gaol;" the utter hopelessness of the condemned felon is communicated to the reader's mind in all its gruesome intensity.

BEAUTIES OF NATURE. By Sir John Lubbock.

An inspiring essay on the blessings of life and the beautiful world in which we live, to which are added strong essays on The Troubles of Life, Labor and Rest, Religion, The Hope of Progress, etc.

CHRISTMAS CAROL. By Chas. Dickens.

This familiar story possesses perennial interest for young and old. Whether regarded as a ghost story, a character study, or a parable, the "Christmas Carol" is one of the most brilliant tales in English literature.

CORSAIR AND LARA. By Lord Byron. With an introduction by M. F. Sweetser.

The extraordinary interest at the present time in Byron demands that two of his complete works be presented in this series. No better understanding of this "wild child of nature" can be obtained than in Corsair and Lara.

COURTSHIP OF MILES STANDISH. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The incident on which the story of The Courtship of Miles Standish is based was a tradition in the family of the author and is a good portrayal of early colonial life.

DESTRUCTION OF POMPEII. By Pliny and Bulwer.

Two interesting descriptions of the Destruction of Pompeii: one by Pliny, the greatest scientist of the ancient world, who wrote as an eye-witness; the other the well-known and thrilling account from Lord Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii."

DISCOURSES OF EPICTETUS. Selections.

In Sir John Lubbock's "List of the One Hundred Best Books," the Bible is first, the "Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius" second, and "Epictetus" third.

DUTY OF HAPPINESS AND OTHER ESSAYS. By Sir John Lubbock.

Thoughts and quotations in which this renowned philosopher has taken the most comfort in times of depressed spirits, hoping in reprinting the substances of them that they may be of use to others also.

ELEGY AND OTHER POEMS. By Thomas Gray.

The "Elegy in a Country Churchyard" occupies as secure a place among English classics as "Hamlet" or "Paradise Lost," but some readers may not realize that several poems by Gray are equally perfect and impressive. This collection contains all of Gray's verse which is really worth knowing.

REMARQUE—(Continued)

ENOCH ARDEN. By Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

In "Enoch Arden" we have one of the most beautiful and pathetic poems in the English language. Had Tennyson never written another line, he would have gone down in history as one of the greatest poets of his time.

EVANGELINE. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The purity, sweetness and refinement with which Longfellow delineates the affections of the heart make his poetry the most welcome of visitants at the domestic fireside, and of all his poems, "Evangeline" is probably the most popular.

FRIENDSHIP AND LOVE. By Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Mr. Emerson is no bookish theorist. He does not draw his conclusions from syllogisms, but from his personal observations of men and things. The essays on Friendship and Love, two of his most human, being subjects akin to each other, are published together as a single volume.

GOLD BUG. By Edgar Allan Poe. With a biographical sketch of the author.

A story of great effect and absorbing interest, one of those rare books that once opened is not closed until the last paragraph is finished.

GOLDEN THOUGHTS. By Fenelon.

Judiciously made extracts from the letters of the great archbishop. Fenelon united in his personality the sweetness of the saint with the strength of the reformer, and his personal correspondence contains the very heart and soul of religious devotion.

GOLDEN WINGS. A Prose Romance and a Poem. By William Morris.

Two early productions of Morris's with the same title. The Prose Romance, written in 1856, while still a student at Oxford, and the Poem, two years later, both of which show the irresistible and quaint charm apparent in all the later writings of this architect, painter, designer, craftsman, socialist and author—who, on the death of Tennyson, was thought by many would be the next Poet Laureate.

HEROISM AND CHARACTER. By Ralph Waldo Emerson.

As Friendship and Love are linked, so Heroism and Character are complementary. In fact, we perceive a strong connection between the four subjects.

REMARQUE—(Continued)

HOLY GRAIL. By Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

This idyl, which must rank as one of the greatest of Tennyson's poetical achievements, came to him suddenly, "as if by a breath of inspiration."

JULIET AND ROMEO. From the Italian of Luigi Da Porto. With an introductory essay by Dr. W. J. Rolfe.

A translation of the original story from which Shakespeare conceived the plot of "Romeo and Juliet." This edition is edited by Dr. W. J. Rolfe, the greatest living authority on Shakespeare.

KING OF THE GOLDEN RIVER. By John Ruskin.

"The King of the Golden River" was written in 1841, at the request of a very young lady, and solely for her amusement, without any idea of publication. Later, with the passive assent of Ruskin, the charming allegory was publicly printed, and literature is thereby the gainer of this most pleasing little work.

L'ARLESIENNE. By Alphonse Daudet. With a biographical sketch by M. F. Sweetser.

L'Arlesienne is the best of Daudet's dramas, and is responsible for his fame as a playwright as well as a novelist.

LADY MONTAGU. Selected Letters.

Lady Mary Montagu, who lived from 1690 to 1762, derived her marvellous literary talents from her relationship to Henry Fielding, the novelist, and Sir John Evelyn, the diarist.

LEAVES OF GRASS. Selections. By Walt Whitman.

Walt Whitman is looked upon as the one distinctive American poet, the product of our New World democracy. Though perhaps lacking in grace, his poems are inspired by his enthusiasm and humanitarianism, and in every line the reader sees the personality of the poet—noble, generous and lofty—a great man in the highest sense of the word.

LETTERS TO A YOUNG MAN ABOUT TOWN. By William Makepeace Thackeray.

These charming but comparatively little known essays originally appeared in Punch, and, until the present edition, have been reissued in a volume by themselves but once, and then in a privately printed book now extremely rare. In his humorous and satirical manner, Thackeray shows up the follies and life of a young man about town in the middle of the nineteenth century.

These letters of sound counsel and practical advice, addressed to his son, Philip, are what Lord Chesterfield's reputation rests upon, and it is through these that the name of Chesterfield has become symbolic of culture and refinement.

LOVE LETTERS OF A VIOLINIST. By Eric Mackay.

Originally published in England, with the name of the author suppressed, these charming love sonnets created much discussion as to authorship, some even claiming they were the work of Swinburne—from whom only it seemed could originate the fertility of thought, grace of language, ingenuity, skill in the ars poetica, wealth of words, and classic resources.

MANON LESCAUT. Vol. I. By L'Abbé Prévost. With an introduction by M. F. Sweetser.

MANON LESCAUT. Vol. II.

Not only in French, but in the emotional literature of our world has Manon Lescaut taken a classical place, and is a profound lesson drawn from weakness of human nature.

MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY. By Edward Everett Hale.

Written to foster patriotism during the Civil War, "The Man Without a Country" still holds to-day as large a claim as ever on the English-reading public.

MEN AND WOMEN. By Robert Browning.

Browning is known the world over for his deep-veined humanity and rare faculty of dramatic representation. These poems have as much red blood in them as the dramas of Shakespeare. The present volume contains all the principal favorites which have sung themselves into the memory of every reader who loves vigorous, manly poetry.

REMARQUE—(Continued)

MILTON. By Lord Macaulay.

A profound and masterly essay on the leader of English literature of the seventeenth century by the leading literary critic of the nineteenth century.

NAPOLEON ADDRESSES AND ANECDOTES.

Napoleon was not only a consummate genius as general and ruler, he was also a man of extraordinary personality. So much of his magnetism and personal charm is preserved in these anecdotes and speeches that we become completely en rapport with the great emperor and cannot fail to share the enthusiasm of his contemporaries.

OLD CHRISTMAS. By Washington Irving.

An ideal picture of an old-fashioned Christmas in rural England. The good old customs, and the quaint games handed down from generation to generation, are pictured in a most interesting manner.

PASSION IN THE DESERT, AND AN EPISODE IN THE REIGN OF TERROR. Selected Prose Works of Honore de Balzac.

Balzac is thought by many competent authorities to be the greatest novelist of the world. His short stories are quite as remarkable in their way as his longer stories, and the very best of them are to be found in the present collection.

PAUL AND VIRGINIA. By Bernardin de St. Pierre. With a biographical sketch of the author.

One of the most beautiful works in romantic literature, a production which gave St. Pierre everlasting fame.

PETER SCHLEMIHL. By Adelbert von Chamisso. With a biographical sketch of the author.

This fantastic tale has attained world-wide fame. Founded on the old superstition that the devil could take a man's shadow, poor Peter is driven from town to town and wanders over the whole world. To the young this story appeals as a fairy-tale, but for others it has a deep ethical significance.

POEMS OF SENTIMENT. By Byron.

Probably no poet in the English-speaking world has ever held as high and well recognized a position as a "sentimentalist" as George Gordon, Lord Byron. His master lyrics dealing with the subject of love, consisting principally of his shorter poems, have been selected and edited with the greatest care for this edition.

REMARQUE—(Continued)

POOR RICHARD'S ALMANAC. By Benjamin Franklin.

A selection of the best sayings from the numerous issues of "Poor Richard." Helpful and inspiring; the work of a most practical mind, written for a most practical nation.

RAB AND HIS FRIENDS. By Dr. John Brown.

"Rab and His Friends," a story of a mastiff, full of beauty and pathos. In this volume the story of Marjorie Fleming, an interesting case of remarkable precociousness, is also published.

RECESSIONAL AND OTHER VERSES. By Rudyard Kipling.

Including all of the Departmental Ditties.

RIP VAN WINKLE AND THE LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW. By Washington Irving.

These immortal stories of Dutch life in colonial New York are the best pieces of writing that Mr. Irving contributed to literature. The pathos, quaintness, and wit are impressed upon the reader in a striking way.

ROCHEFOUCAULD'S MAXIMS.

These maxims, written by a cavalier of Richelieu's time, one who knew the world as few have an opportunity of knowing it, are witty, subtle and true. The author has grasped the whole of life, and weakness of human nature, of fashion and conventionalities are strongly depicted.

RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM.

The "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam" is one of the greatest contributions that the East has given to literature. The subtle thought, the soft Oriental imagery, and the delicacy of the poetry will appeal to the poetic imagination of all ages.

SALOME. By Oscar Wilde.

Originally published in French, "Salome" was translated into English the following year, and since then translations have appeared in Spanish, Swedish, German, Polish and Russian, showing the truth of the German statement that to-day Oscar Wilde is a "World's Poet" and "Salome" a "World's Play."

SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL. By Sheridan.

Sheridan's comedies are second only to Shakespeare's. "The School for Scandal" undoubtedly his masterpiece, has had an undiminished popularity from the moment it was published to the present day.

SELECTED POEMS. By John Boyle O'Reilly.

Through several causes, but not lack of merit, Boyle O'Reilly is fast becoming merely a name to the generation of to-day. Therefore, pains have here been taken to perpetuate the choicest productions of his pen—poems worthy of rank with the masterpieces of English literature.

SESAME AND LILIES. By John Ruskin.

However varied Ruskin's writings are, they are ever inspired with an artistic spirit and a desire to awaken a love for the beautiful. In these charming essays on literature and other subjects no better example of his strong ethical temperament can be found.

SIR ROGER DE COVERLEY PAPERS. By Addison.

The famous "Sir Roger de Coverley Papers" are not only treasured by all students of English literature, but by historians as well. For nowhere do we find a finer description of English life in the eighteenth century than in these papers. Furthermore, in the character of Sir Roger we find the finest delineation in English literature of an ideal gentleman.

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER. By Oliver Goldsmith.

"She Stoops to Conquer" is a comedy abounding in the keenest wit and satire. Human nature is depicted by a masterly observer, and the characters of the play are true to life.

SKETCHES OF YOUNG COUPLES. By Charles Dickens.

Some of the earlier sketches of the immortal Dickens, in which, however, are seen the clear and wonderful characterizations unequaled by any other modern author, and even unsurpassed in his later and better known works. His people live before you.

SNOW-BOUND. By John Greenleaf Whittier.

"'Snow-bound' may fairly be said to sum up Whittier's personal experience, and yet so absolutely free is it from egotism that it has taken its place as the representative poem of New England country life.

SOME FRUITS OF SOLITUDE. Reflections and Maxims. By William Penn.

"To quote a book like this were impossible; at least one can hand it on, with a wrench, one to another. Some of the 'Fruits' are sounder, juicier, and grown against a sunnier wall of experience than others, but all are delicate, and the little basket which holds them will be found in all times and places a peaceful and sweet companion."—Robert Louis Stevenson.

SONNETS FROM THE PORTUGUESE. By Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

In the "Sonnets from the Portuguese," a most exquisite series of love poems, we have Mrs. Browning at her best, and in sentiment and lofty rhyme she is at times truly Shakespearian.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT. By Matthew Arnold.

An epoch-making essay, by one of the most cultured, practical and inspiring minds of our century.

TALES OF A WAYSIDE INN. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Containing some of the best of his shorter poems, the first part of which was brought out in 1863, and which met with immediate success.

THOUGHTS OF MARCUS AURELIUS. Selections.

Marcus Aurelius was the purest and loftiest of the pagan philosophers. "His great work, 'The Thoughts,'" says Lecky, "not only forms one of the most impressive, but also forms one of the truest books in the whole range of religious literature."

UNDINE. By Baron Friedrich de la Motte-Fouque.

The charming and graceful narrative, Undine, is a gem in German literature. It breathes of the fresh fragrance of the woods, and is animated by beautiful thoughts that people the sea and air with nymphs and spirits.

UNTO THIS LAST. By John Ruskin.

Four essays nominally upon wealth and the acquisition thereof. Present day developments strikingly justify the reasonings and conclusions of this pioneer sociologist and altruist.

THE VALUE OF TIME AND OTHER ESSAYS. By Sir John Lubbock.

Further maxims and conclusions of a great and wise optimist as well as a thoroughly modern thinker and teacher. In style and matter they deserve an equal place among the productions of the great classic writers.

VAMPIRE AND OTHER VERSES. By Rudyard Kipling.

Including all of the Barrack Room Ballads.

REMARQUE—(Continued)

VIRGINIBUS PUERISQUE. By Robert Louis Stevenson.

It is refreshing to find a work for boys and girls written by a man of genius, "Virginibus Puerisque" stands high among Mr. Stevenson's writings, and is enjoyed by both old and young.

VISION OF SIR LAUNFAL. By James Russell Lowell.

This great poem is drawn from the famous romance of King Arthur and the Holy Grail, a theme which has furnished inspiration to so many great minds. The "Vision of Sir Launfal" is the best of Lowell's shorter poems.

WERTHER. By J. W. von Goethe. With a biographical sketch of the author.

To appreciate the romantic and sentimental nature of the mighty Goethe one must read Werther. Though o'ershadowed by the author's other works, yet Werther alone would have made him immortal.

WILL O' THE MILL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH. By R. L. Stevenson.

This little parable of a life contains a wonderful moral and is also an irresistibly fascinating story in itself, written in the most exquisite English. Many critics think it Stevenson's masterpiece.

WIT AND WISDOM. By Sidney Smith.

Extracts from Smith's writing and conversations which flash with repartee, good-tempered satire, and wit. The comments on America and Americans are alone worth the price of the little book.

PENELOPE'S SECRET

Penelope Donne is a lone little girl whose mother is dead and whose father is abroad. She lives with her father's brother and sister. Although everyone is extremely kind to her, nobody quite understands how much she wants somebody to play with who is not grown up. One day she meets, as she thinks, with the lady of the wishing stone, and asks her "to bring Daddy back, and to give her a magic carpet to take her everywhere, and a large family to play with." How her three wishes are granted, how she wanders about the country, not on a magic carpet, but in the company of a large family of cousins who are temporarily without a home, and finally meets her father, is told with many exciting details.

RENAISSANCE AND ITS MAKERS, THE

The purpose of this book is to lay before the general reader the main tendencies of the epoch that laid the foundation of modern life and thought. It also serves as a guide to the best of the vast literature of the subject.

The Renaissance movement in Italy is traced to its source and the consequent progress throughout Europe is set out in the historical order. The story is not confined to the Revival of Learning, but embraces its influence on Art, Philosophy, Social Life and Character. An effort has been made to focus in easy narrative the transition from Mediævalism to Modernism, and give a succinct account of the Fourteenth Century Revolution and its consequences for succeeding generations. Beginning with St. Francis of Assisi, the story ends with Francis Bacon. The method is episodic. We see the qualified Renaissance premonition in Dante, the last great Mediævalist; we observe the new spirit active in Petrarch, the first great modern, and in his pupil, Boccaccio. We follow the Renaissance beyond the Alps, into Germany, where Renaissance becomes Reformation; into the France of Rabelais, the Spain of Cervantes, the England of Sir Thomas Moore.

The book is copiously and beautifully illustrated in color and black and white.

THE ENGLISH YEAR

"The English Year" is an endeavor to present by word and picture the meaning and savor of the months and seasons. Wind and rain and frost; birds and beasts and insects; grasses and mosses and trees; the stars, even the accidents of our almanacs, combine to give each month a very distinct character. Without in any way attempting to exhaust the category, the authors have described under each month what is most characteristic.

The series of beautiful plates from some of the choicest efforts of living English artists, combined with Mr. Seaby's delightful drawings (nearly 200 in number), go to make these volumes undoubtedly the most charming nature books ever published.

THE CALIFORNIACS
"The Californiac is unable to talk about anything but California, except when he interrupts himself to knock every other place on the face of the earth. He looks with pity on anybody born outside of California, and he believes that no one who has ever seen California willingly lives elsewhere. He himself often lives elsewhere, but he never admits it is from choice. He refers to California always as 'God's Country,' and if you permit him to start his God's country line of talk it is all up with intelligent conversation for the rest of the day."

The Philosophy of Power

OR WHAT TO LIVE FOR

The demand of the 20th century is not so much for new beliefs as for actual knowledge. The need of the hour is for a formulation of the practical principles which everyday experience has demonstrated to be most effective in bringing life to the fullness of all its latent powers.

In his new book, "The Philosophy of Power," Dr. Randall attempts such a formulation of principles. It may be regarded as the Creed of the practical man who cares little about theology or dogma, and yet who is conscious of a need of some practical working philosophy for life.

THE BOOK OF LINCOLN

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.00

No figure in American history has loomed up in such majestic proportions since the war began as that of Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln's vision, his philosophy, his attitude toward war and the means of securing a just peace, have been on the lips of British, French and American statesmen from month to month during the last three years.

Mrs. Davis has brought together in this volume the tributes of the world to Lincoln, and in a very real sense the picture of him that grows out of this volume is a world picture, international in its authorship and immortal in its truth.

Now that the great Lincoln memorial is nearing its completion in Washington and the eyes of the world are turning more and more to this heroic figure, people everywhere will find in Mrs. Davis's book the tributes that ought to be the common knowledge of a people who hold Abraham Lincoln in their hearts.

HISTORIC SHRINES OF AMERICA

Illustrated with Photographs. 8vo, Net, $3.50

This admirable and beautiful book could not a couple of years ago have meant to us what it does today. Love for and pride in our country has been crystallized as never before into a national emotion. And increased knowledge of the romantic springs of our liberty and of our native culture satisfies a thirst in the newly awakened American heart.

Here in this volume is visualized the symbols of our faith: the landmarks of America's story in statesmanship, in war, and in literature, are presented with scrupulous historical accuracy and set in rich lore and legend. The treatment is fresh and direct. The scene ranges from the revolutionary monuments of the eastern states to such neglected spots in our romance as the house near St. Louis, where U. S. Grant courted Julia Dent, and gathers in roundabout all the rich and distinctive flavor of the South.

THE REAL COLONEL HOUSE

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.50

This book contains the first AUTHENTIC story of Colonel E. M. House, the closest confidant and personal representative of President Wilson.

Here for the first time is the intimate story of the most enigmatic figure in world politics. It portrays the man who controlled Texas politically for years; who made sure the election of President Wilson; who was the brains of his renomination and re-election; and who now occupies a position without parallel in world diplomacy by reason of his remarkable knowledge and life-long study of international politics.

It is the picture of a man who shuns the spot-light, but whose ten by fifteen study in his New York home is the point of call for every foreign diplomat and representative.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST

FEDERAL POWER: Its Growth and Necessity

12mo, Net, $1.50

A study, both scholarly and readable, of the subject which more than any other holds the attention of the political consciousness of the nation today.

Against a historical background, Mr. West makes clear the gradual centralization of government from the time of the first Federalist party, through the cataclysm of the Civil War which had the question of States' Rights for its primary issue, down to the present day. With frankness and moderation the author reviews the tremendous problems confronting us today as a result of the power given into the hands of the President. A discussion of federal power as a political issue and as a military necessity leads up to a prediction of the future which, considering the author's historical and political training, must be regarded as a serious contribution to the literature of political science.

By CHARLES STELZLE

WHY PROHIBITION!

12mo, Net, $1.50

A remarkably sane, sound, thorough, business-like treatment of prohibition as an educational and economic problem and a political and legislative question, by a completely equipped authority on the subject, who for more than a year has been conducting throughout the country the Strengthen America Campaign.

America practically holds in her hands the future of the liquor traffic throughout the world. Greatest of the foes within our own household is Kaiser John Barleycorn. And "temperance eloquence" as a weapon is as antiquated today as muzzle-loading cannon.

This is a book addressed straight to the enlightened self-interest of every drinker, every non-drinker, and every neutral in the matter of prohibition.

By FRANK M. O'BRIEN

THE STORY OF THE SUN: 1833-1918

With an Introduction by Edward Page Mitchell, Editor of The Sun.
Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $3.50

No great American newspaper has ever achieved and maintained so human a personality as the New York Sun. "A Sun story" has remained in an unbroken tradition a thing distinctive, unique in the annals of journalism, the darling of the newspaper world.

There has been no more famous editor than Dana. And the full story of the New York Sun is as rich, colorful, racy a picture of the development of the American scene as could possibly come to hand. It was born when New York was about the present size of Indianapolis or Seattle; when Postmaster Gouverneur had one clerk to sort out all the mail that came into New York from the rest of the world; when Irving and Cooper, Bryant and Halleck, Nathaniel P. Willis and George P. Morris were the outstanding figures of our intellectual life. In the days of duels, of Davy Crockett, of pigs wandering in City Hall Park.

It was the first newspaper sold on the streets of New York; its first newsboy grew up to be Barney Williams, the famous comedian; his boss, Benjamin H. Day, was the first American to make a success of a newspaper at a popular price. It was the sunrise of American journalism.

By H. B. IRVING

Author of "The Life of Judge Jeffreys," "Studies of French Criminals of the Nineteenth Century," etc.

A BOOK OF REMARKABLE CRIMINALS

8vo, Net, $2.00

This is a book which must appeal to all who are interested in the fascinating study of human nature. It is no mere rehashing of tales of horror, but an acute analysis of famous crimes and criminals.

The individual criminals whose careers are given have been chosen for pre-eminence in character or achievement. Charles Peace, the popular professional criminal, making of crime a business methodically pursued; Robert Butler, the strange type of the criminal by conviction; Derues, that rare bird, the merry murderer; Professor Webster and Eugene Aram, men of culture and scholarly attainment who burst suddenly into crime; Holmes, the instinctive murderer, taking life as an incident in the accomplishment of his schemes—these are a few of the remarkable types presented by Mr. Irving.

There are also strikingly original discussions of the great criminals of Shakespeare, and their verisimilitude when compared with those of real life; and of the criminality of some heroes of history. These real crimes, which have furnished the basis for literary masterpieces, from "Arden of Faversham" to "The Cenci," are evidence that the true stories in this book represent the raw material of future works of art.

By HELEN W. HENDERSON

Author of "A Loiterer in New York," etc.

A LOITERER IN NEW ENGLAND

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $5.00

Miss Henderson achieved considerable fame by her unusually able volume upon New York and its art treasures. A LOITERER IN NEW YORK has attracted wide attention for its breadth of vision and its soundness of careful judgment.

In her new volume she brings the same trained observation to a study of New England and its treasures and for any one who wants to know about the best that New England holds for the art lover, there is no more interesting or more capable volume to be recommended than Miss Henderson's.

The book is uniform with A LOITERER IN NEW YORK, and very beautifully illustrated with the choicest reproductions of New England's art subjects.

By LUCIAN SWIFT KIRTLAND

SAMURAI TRAILS

A Chronicle of Wanderings on the Japanese Highroad.

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.50

A walking tour through the unfrequented byways of Japan, where foreigners are an unheard of occurrence, offers a limitless field for picturesque adventure. This is no tourist's guide book, but the delightful record of days on the road, where even inconveniences have their silver lining of humor, and the spice of unexpectedness is a frequent condiment.

To wander along the ancient roads with O-Kirtland-san and O-Owre-san is to learn more about Japan than the average foreigner has any chance to learn, and to have the gaiety of life enriched forever by the memory of so enchanting an experience.

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Nonsense Anthology," etc.

SUCH NONSENSE:

A Unique Anthology of Wit and Nonsense.

Illustrated. Octavo, Net, $3.00

Carolyn Wells has the genius to be a wit and to discover the best of the wit of others. In this Anthology she has assembled much of the freshest, most sparkling nonsense of recent years. And she has annotated her book in an altogether unique fashion, giving new zest to her selections. The illustrations are by such masters of nonsense as Peter Newell, Gellett Burgess and others. A wonderful book for dull days or for friends with a predisposition to be dull.

UNDERSTANDING SOUTH AMERICA

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.00

The vital importance to us of North America of a sympathetic and true understanding of South America was never more clear than now. Here is a book that ought to be in the hands of every intelligent reader, of every teacher, and of every employee of a commercial house with export trade.

Why the South American loves France, why, in spite of inter-marriage, trade methods, and propaganda through the schools, he cannot be brought to love Germany; what is his attitude toward America; his domestic, social, commercial and political life and ideas; the characteristics and status of women—these are only a few of the intensely interesting questions discussed in UNDERSTANDING SOUTH AMERICA.

MEXICO'S DILEMMA

Illustrated. 8vo. Net, $1.50

Probably nobody is better qualified than Carl W. Ackerman, a trained writer and observer fresh from over two years' experience of the German character in Germany, to estimate the significance of German activities in Mexico. Upon his return to the United States, Mr. Ackerman went to Mexico to uncover the truth of the situation there as to the probable outcome of the dilemma in which that unhappy country finds herself.

What will Mexico do? And how can she be saved for the forces of right? Mr. Ackerman's answers are drawn from a multitude of intimate sources, whereby the past is collated with the present.

THE NEW REVELATION

12mo, Net, $1.00

A notable contribution to the literature of Psychical Research; it forms a connecting link between the scientific and the religious phases of the movement.

In Sir Arthur Conan Doyle another distinguished mind has been added to the ranks of the spiritualists, and his account of the process of his conversion, in experiments extending over a period of thirty years, compels the respect of the most skeptical.

Of particular value is the summing up of the descriptions of life on the "other side." In this time of terrible loss, the question of immortality has become the insistent question of the day. For the bereaved seeking comfort, no less than for the scientific investigator, "The New Revelation" is an excellent introduction to the subject of spirit communication.

THE BUGLE: Reveille in the Life Beyond

A Bit of Comfort to Soldiers' Mothers, Wives and Friends.

12mo, Net, $1.00

"My mission is to write a story of my brief experiences in the Life Eternal . . . My ardent desire is to reach my friends on earth who are sending out of their homes the sons who may come home no more." This is the spirit in which Dr. Achorn communicates with "Miss Secretary." Dr. Hicks is not a professional medium; the messages have come to her unsought and she records them as they come.

All who have read the remarkable revelations of "Raymond" will receive with especial interest this corroborative evidence of conditions on the Other Side. All who are suffering the irreparable loneliness which the war has brought to so many will find here courage and solace.

MAN IS A SPIRIT

12mo. Net, $1.50

This book contains a most interesting collection of data by one of the leaders in the movement of Psychical Research, which has received a marked impetus from the tragedies of war.

The author criticises his material in an admirably scientific spirit, and has added some exceedingly interesting data on a subject which is holding the attention of the entire scientific and religious world.

The disciple will find much here to strengthen his conviction; and the opponent will find some tough material to whet his wits upon.

SELF AND SELF MANAGEMENT

Board. 12mo, Net, $1.00

If Arnold Bennett had never written a novel he would still be one of the most widely and eagerly read of living writers. In one of the most outstanding critical estimates of his power, Professor Stewart P. Sherman does not fail to emphasize the electric value and remarkable vogue of his direct talks to ordinary people. Doubtless no other man has in so great a degree the gift of interpreting to themselves for the surer guidance of their lives The Plain Man and His Wife. The author of "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day" tells in SELF AND SELF MANAGEMENT exactly how one and all may put their lives on a war basis, resulting in the greatest effectiveness, and consequently self-satisfaction.

WALKING-STICK PAPERS

12mo, Net, $1.50

Mr. Holliday has had for a number of years the kind of a reputation most difficult to gain. That is, he has enjoyed the esteem of those best qualified to know what is best—our most critical and distinguished writers. Recently, as a humorous and critical biographer, his name has become widely known.

Booth Tarkington says: "A writer that can write." James Huneker says: "Monstrously clever." Royal Cortissoz says: "An individual, warming quality. Honest thinking and feeling." Joyce Kilmer says: "With the masters of the essay in English." The papers are the varied fruits of an unusual experience of the world's ways, ranging from the romance of the fish business to the inner sanctums of the literary profession, from a savoring of the spectacle of the town to infectious joy in the country-side.

Mr. Lucas has come across an English translation, published in four ponderous volumes, of an Arabic work of the thirteenth century, a Biographical Dictionary by one Ibn Khallikan, who attained all sorts of distinctions as a kadi (sounds like the "Arabian Nights!").

Everyone acquainted with Mr. Lucas's playful ingenuities will appreciate the sport he is able to get out of this Arabian-Nights-like affair. Mr. Lucas passes from his sage of Baghdad to various diversions in the passing show of today, upon which he touches with a delicacy and a discretion altogether his own.

THE MIND OF ARTHUR JAMES BALFOUR

Selections from His Non-Political Writings, Speeches and Addresses, 1879-1917. Including Special Sections on America and Germany.
With Portrait. Octavo, Net, $2.50

No contemporary British statesman or man of letters is better known by name to the American public than Arthur James Balfour, and yet it is true that until his visit to this country at the head of the British War Mission the average American had no real idea of the remarkable calibre of this extraordinary figure of English life.

This book, based upon a volume issued several years ago, gives a very interesting insight into the mind of a man whose life-long hope has been the closer union of the English-speaking peoples. The chapters, drawn from his writings and public utterances, cover an amazing field of politics, literature, art, education, history, religion, music, philosophy and science. A special section on Germany has been added from his recent writings. The book reveals one of the most able and unusual intellects of our day.

Here is a book of the future, for those of the present who are eager for the vision of new horizons, new trails which lead to a broader, freer life than humanity has yet acknowledged.

Delicate pastels of the beauty of life in the open, filled with the inspiration of the out-of-doors and the people who dare to re-create life to nobler uses; letters from the children who have found the open road and felt the spell of the mystical adventure; bugle calls to enlist soldiers for the newer democracy—all of these and other sources of inspiration are brought together in a book which opens a new way of life to those who have let themselves be smothered under a load of mere things.

By ROSE COHEN

OUT OF THE SHADOW

With twelve illustrations by Walter Jack Duncan. 8vo, Net, $2.00

This is such a book as appears only at rare intervals. Poignant, of enduring beauty, immensely timely, this authentic romance of the miraculous spiritual Americanization of the alien, like "Marie Claire," strikingly illustrates Whistler's dictum that "art happens." None can foretell where genius will strike. A Russian emigrant girl who learns written English by her enthusiasm for a chance copy of "David Copperfield" tells her own story with the creative power of a great novelist; with a delightful raciness of phrase which could not be simulated by the professional writer; and with a sociological insight beyond the mere student.

From its strange and touching beginning in Russia, lit by the light of a beautiful family affection, the story passes to the almost as strange and equally touching shadow of New York's east side. And then by a deep human experience comes the author's awakening to a wide spiritual horizon and the meaning of America to her adopted children.

A book which is the fruit of unconscious art.

AN ENGLISHWOMAN'S HOME

12mo, Net, $1.35

The part of women in the war is no less real because their fighting is done behind the lines. These poignant, simple letters from an English woman to her American friend will touch the heart of every American woman who reads them; for they tell of the brave effort to "carry on" when sacrifice after sacrifice has been demanded and gladly given. To have stood in the garden while your house was blown to pieces by a Zeppelin bomb, to have waited with munition workers in a factory during the moments which might be the last for four thousand women workers—these are the things which make the war a very close and terrible reality.

PAINTED WINDOWS

By looking with charmed eyes at those pictures from out her past, long-wished-for visions of one's own youth appear to heal the wounds from which we suffer, and to quiet our stormy and restless hearts today. Night, solitude, friendship, fame, remorse, and travel are the themes treated with delicate feeling and exquisite grace of expression.

YOUR HEART AND HOW TO TAKE CARE OF IT

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.50

Have you any very clear notion as to how your habits and your mode of life may affect your heart? If you have a weak heart, do you know how to protect it from still greater weakness? Do you know really what symptoms mean heart disease and what do not? In short, do you know anything clear and definite about the one organ on which the healthy orderly function of your other organs depends?

It is the object of this book to give you clear and reliable information to enable you to take care of your own health and that of others. Its warnings to the hurrier, the victim of the too strenuous life, are to the highest degree helpful and cannot be too strongly emphasized. The day of intentional mystification by the medical profession is past, and the day of the education of the public is at hand. Dr. Babcock is one of those enlightened physicians who are glad to share their knowledge with the layman.

By MATTHEW PAGE ANDREWS

A HERITAGE OF FREEDOM

12mo. Boards, Net, $0.50

In this intensely interesting study of the sources and beginnings of American democracy Mr. Andrews has uncovered a genuinely new page of history. The "newer history" has found the English and American relations both prior to, and after the Revolution, a field of fruitful study.

The point brought out by Mr. Andrews is that the essential democratic natures of the two peoples prevented a conflict and that a democratic group in England itself animated and supported the colonies.

Coming at this moment, Mr. Andrews's volume will do much to open the eyes even of well-read Americans to the lineal descent of American democracy from the liberal element of the British people. More than this, it will make clear the essential unity of ideal in the two countries.

HOW TO SWIM

Illustrated with Many Photographs of Miss Kellermann and Diagrams of Strokes, Dives, etc. Octavo, Net, $2.00

It is hardly too much to say that no one person has ever done as much to popularize and make perfect the art of swimming as Annette Kellermann. Her name is synonymous with water sports the world over, and wherever the movies have gone the public has witnessed the water marvels of this graceful and accomplished woman.

In the book she tells how she swims, and the story goes back to the days of her childhood in Australia and her first struggles and success in England when she got three-quarters across the English Channel.

It is a fascinating book, beautifully illustrated by pictures of Miss Kellermann, and the chapters are full of the intimate details and secrets of her art.

Illustrated with Many Photographs of Miss Kellermann.

Octavo, Net, $2.00

In point of physical development, Annette Kellermann is acknowledged to be one of the few living women who approximate the ideal of the Venus de Medici. She tells how she got her bodily perfection and how she keeps it.

Swimming, dancing, care of the skin, dieting for reduction of weight, care of hands and feet, hair and teeth; and the secret of becoming clothes—these are some things that the author deals with.

The book is practical, sound in its advice, and has the value of offering a program which is thoroughly tested by the experience of Miss Kellermann.

CAMPING OUT

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.50

Camping out may well be classed as one of the liberal arts and few men practising the art have had any such rich and varied experience as Warren H. Miller. For thirty years, in all climates and conditions, Mr. Miller has been going out once a month, every month, for a brief camping trip, and in the Fall and Spring seasons these trips have frequently run to a week.

This experience, coupled with the close study of all outdoor sports which the author has made, as Editor of Field and Stream, qualify him to speak with very great authority.

This volume covers a wide range. It discusses all kinds of camping outfits from the de luxe kit of the man with unlimited means down to the bare essentials of the hunting and exploring outfit adapted to long trips.

OLD DAYS ON THE FARM

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.50

The life of the pioneer is fast fading out of the consciousness of the nation—the isolated farms and cabins are gone, and the telephone and automobile are ubiquitous. But the old days should not be lost to us. Mr. Wood has recaptured the stalwart spirit, the hardships, the customs, the fun that are possible only under the primitive conditions of life on an old-fashioned farm.

Enthusiasm and humor bubble on every page. Adventures in simplicity were as hair-raising as any zestful seeker of experiences could desire. Breaking in a wild ox team, fighting a way through snow drifts to the distant village for food, and the gentler idylls of milking and courting and fishing make the town dweller look back a bit wistfully to the old days on the farm, and feel that he has had at least a glimpse into Arcadia.

He sees death, and he learns what it is to be despoiled of his wages in one night's rioting. But through it all he learns to stand on his own feet and to find bits of wisdom in the most unlikely places. Every chap who has never quite grown up—and that means everyone worth considering—will rejoice in this spirited tale of a year's vagabondage.

SIX RED MONTHS IN RUSSIA

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.00

Here is the story of the Russian revolution as seen through the eyes of a sympathetic observer of the great upheaval. Miss Bryant lived in Russia, not as an outsider, but as one of the people. She knew Kerenski, Lenine, Trotski and the leaders of every party. She knew the women of the famous Battalion of Death. She was among those caught in a closed archway and fired on by an armored car; she was in the Winter Palace with the Junkers on the afternoon when it fell. In fact, there were few things going on in that period of incredibly rapid events which Louise Bryant did not take part in. Her story is that of one who knows just what vast, hungry, struggling Russia was like during all those days, and who tells what she knows in vivid, flashing pictures, which make the reader live through it all with her.

FROM BAPAUME TO PASSCHENDAELE

(On the Western Front, 1917) Maps. Octavo, Net, $2.50

FROM BAPAUME TO PASSCHENDAELE is a clarifying panoramic view of the wide sweep of the war itself, knit of innumerable "close-ups." It pictures every nook and corner of the scene: a world of strange little dramas, heroic exploits, tragic stories, humorous episodes, and historically significant things.

A HISTORY OF THE GREAT WAR—VOLUME III. THE BRITISH CAMPAIGN IN FRANCE AND FLANDERS—1916

Illustrated. Maps. Octavo, Net, $2.00

In dramatic value this third volume of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's monumental history passes far beyond the two volumes which preceded it. The volume presents the heartening story of the first year of attack and advance by a mammoth army, like our own, moulded out of hand. Though Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's great rank as a historian has been attained by accurate statement, the stirring story of the Somme can justly be told only in stirring words. All in all, this book leaves a most powerful impression.

Later, as Captain Dugmore, he went through the great days of battle when the German line was smashed on the Somme, and his account of these adventures, over the very ground of this spring's vast conflict—until he was gassed—form one of the most thrilling and unique records of personal experience that has ever found its way past the censor.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN THE REICHSTAG

Octavo, Net, $2.00

Sprightly as witty gossip, authentic as history, earnest as the charges of a public-spirited citizen against criminal injustice, are these stirring memoirs of an Alsatian priest who, as a member of the Reichstag from the "lost province," has devoted his life to fighting the political battles of his oppressed people. The hypocrisy, the stupidity, the servility of Germany's parliament are here revealed by one who has spent years behind the scenes. The characters of German leaders—the Kaiser, von Bulow, the Crown Prince, von Tirpitz, Scheidemann, Bethmann-Holweg, and a host of others—are etched with calm truthfulness and revealing personal detail. The whole history of the relations between Alsace and Germany is recounted in a style which makes it easy to see how the author's journal set all official Germany by the ears, how every attempt to suppress him only added to his popularity.

By MABEL POTTER DAGGETT

WOMEN WANTED

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.50

Several months ago Mrs. Daggett went abroad to make a thorough study at first hand of the change in woman's position in Europe, and she has brought together in this book astounding accounts of the new world that war has opened wide to women. Visiting the industrial and war works of England and France, Mrs. Daggett saw women in highly skilled technical work, women at machines rebuilt on a smaller scale for their express use, factories filled with bouquets to keep the women happy, whole villages in which the housekeeping was done, and the meals cooked, and the children cared for by the government, so that milady might be free to work.

The plain story of what England and France have done for their women's labor reads like a fairy tale. It overturns all the economic and labor theories as to woman's domestic limitations, and it opens up the large question: After the war—what? Mrs. Daggett attempts to forecast the answer to this in three interesting chapters on the rising value of the baby, the ring and the woman, and the new race.

THE WAR AND AFTER

8vo, Net, $1.50

In this book Sir Oliver Lodge does the very thing that thoughtful men and women the world over are trying to do with more or less success: he "takes stock" of the past, the present and the future with relation to the war and to Germany; and he points the way.

After touching upon the past with its false philosophy and its conflict of ideals, Sir Oliver unfolds in a wonderful panorama a vision of what may be got from this world anguish—the great new crusade to which all the nations are called.

With a knowledge that springs from years of eminent scientific research and the spiritual forcefulness of a writer who could give to the world a book like "Raymond," Sir Oliver is doubly armed to move the reader by his vision of a new earth. It is a book to read—and re-read.

ANONYMOUS

THE LIE OF AUGUST 3D, 1914

12mo, Net, $1.50

The representations of Germany regarding her part in the world war are woven of a tissue of lies. Just how it was done—how the gullible German people were beguiled into believing that eighty French officers, disguised as Germans, crossed Holland into Germany in twelve motor cars, that French aeroplanes dropped bombs on German cities before the declaration of war, that French doctors tried to poison German wells with cholera microbes, and a hundred other wild tales—is here revealed with all the Mephistophelian cunning of the German inventors exposed. Extracts from official documents, from the accounts of eye witnesses, and from German newspapers prove beyond the shadow of a doubt the vast network of lies whereby Prussia secured the co-operation of the rest of Germany in her attack on the freedom of the world.

ON THE FRINGE OF THE GREAT FIGHT

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.50

Why has this war, in other respects the most terrible in history, failed to take its accustomed toll of casualties by contagious disease? The efforts of the medical and sanitary corps are quiet, tireless, heroic. They investigate the carcase of a dead rat, and—save an army from Bubonic plague. There are times when Tommy wants a bath more than he wants the V. C.—and these are the men who see that he gets it.

Colonel Nasmith was in conference with the greatest scientists of France in war-time Paris. He was near St. Julien at the time of the first gas attack. He saw the second Battle of Ypres. He analyzed the German gas, invented the gas mask, devised a means of supplying the troops with pure water. And he tells about it all with the terseness and conviction of the man who has seen with his own eyes the things whereof he speaks.

AIRCRAFT IN WAR AND COMMERCE

With an introduction by Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, C. S. I.
Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.50

The world has waked up to the fact that the one great discovery of the present war is the untold possibilities of the aircraft.

This book gives the reader a real look behind the scenes. It takes up the history of flying, tells how Germany got the better of the world. How France, England and Italy have caught up with her. How America is now in the way of becoming the greatest flying nation of the world.

How the aeroplane is built, how it is flown, how it can be fought best; what the aeroplane will mean to the future—these are some of the very interesting things told in this book.

THE NEW BOOK OF MARTYRS

Translated by Florence Simmons. 12mo. Net, $1.35

The old martyrology contained the chronicles of those who laid down their lives for the faith. These martyrs of the new day have done no less. They are the heroes whose exploits would have remained unknown were it not for a French military doctor who knew and loved them.

He heard their stories in the hospital; and he sets down the record here, in these true and unforgetable tales of the nameless heroes of the French front—a thing of wonder, of unspeakable sadness, of shining glory.

ACES HIGH

Being Some Adventures with Democracy's Air Devils. 12mo, Net, $1.50

The air service is at once the most picturesque, dangerous, and romantic of all the branches of fighting. Here is "inside stuff" which has not only the thrill of adventure in the air, but catches the inner spirit and emotion which accompanies a combat, a fall, a life and death contest of wits and skill.

Sergeant Wright had some dramatic experiences with the French as well as the enemy—when he was ordered to be shot at sunrise by his own side, for instance; indeed he seems to have drawn exciting events in his direction as a magnet draws iron. And he tells about it with the spirit, the gaiety, the sense of dramatic values, which mark him out as one of the few writers of war experiences whose work has literary as well as personal interest.

WINGED WARFARE

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.50

First they gave him the M.C.—Military Cross.
As he continued to down Germans they added the D.S.O.—Distinguished Service Order.
Still his record grew. So they added the V.C.—Victoria Cross.
That was all there was; but the Victories grew so they added a gold bar to the V.C.
This is Major Bishop's own story. It is the book of the Champion, the wonder book of the air. Here are none of the grim tragedies of the trenches, none of the sights and smells and brutalities. It is a tale of exhilarating adventure that leaves the reader breathless after the swerve and dip of battle.

THE FLYING POILU (Translated by Frances Wilson Huard)

With drawings by Charles Huard. 12mo, Net, $1.35

A most delicate yet realistic romance of the French aviation service, full of humour, breathless excitement, pathos, gaiety—in a word, of the inimitable French élan. Chignole is a street urchin of Paris who, by his daring exploits, his incorrigible love of pranks, his infectious humour, wins the love and respect of the social superiors among whom he is thrown, and, through suffering, friendship, danger, "finds himself."

TEN MONTHS IN A GERMAN RAIDER

A Prisoner of War on the Wolff. Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

Captain Cameron's story as it came from his own lips is a simple record of human experience in these unbelievable times—a bully sea yarn unspoiled by a literary finish.

The master of the American bark Beluga, torpedoed homeward bound, tells the story of his great adventure on board the German raider Wolff and subsequently on the prize ship Igotz Mendi, on which vessels he and his wife spent almost a year, experiencing German sea warfare from the inside.

THE UNCIVIL WAR

12mo, Net, $1.25

A very shrewd, searching philosophy marks these discussions of America and the War. Under cover of an amusing and at times hilarious style, Porter Emerson Browne goes to the roots of some of those questions which are behind and beneath our purpose in entering the world conflict.

War as we have hitherto understood it and as the Germans have now made us see it; Kaiserism, autocracy and the only remedy for it; the justness of our cause; the winning of the War by economy—these are some of the subjects, uppermost in all our minds, which this volume lights up with a flash of humor and pointed wisdom.

CRESCENT AND IRON CROSS

In this volume the author describes the hideous oppression under which the subject peoples of the Ottoman Empire have so long suffered. He goes fully into the steps whereby Germany has secured, for the present, an absolute dominion over Turkey, and suggests the measures that will be necessary before the Allies can realise one of their stated aims in the war—namely, to free the subject peoples from the cruel yoke and expel the Turkish Government from Constantinople. His facts are derived from a study of official documents.

Illustrated. 8vo. Net, $2.00

In his signed preface to this book Mr. Gerard says:

"In some measure this book is a continuation of MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY, the narrative here being carried up to the time of my return home, with some observations on the situation I have found in the United States.

Here are facts which could not before be made public, a fresh disclosure of the experiences of America's official spokesman in Berlin. Mr. Gerard gives an intimate personal record of people met, conversations held, and events witnessed. Besides the revelation of German statecraft from the inside, it contains an account of the situation of the neutral countries of Europe, a warning to our own country to beware of German propaganda, an exposure of the German spy system, and an analysis of conditions in the United States as he finds them.

WORLD PEACE: A Written Debate

Portraits. 12mo, Net, $1.25

This book holds a discussion of WORLD PEACE that every intelligent reader should ponder.

Our first duty is to win the war—as the President has proclaimed. Our next duty is to know what kind of peace we are going to exact for the lives we have spent. It is just as possible to squander the fruits of Victory as it is to dissipate wealth. We must know what we want. Do you know?

Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan disagree and tell you why. With which one do you stand? Their arguments are clearly set forth, the subjects they are debating unmistakably defined.

NAVAL POWER IN THE WAR

With Maps, Diagrams and Illustrations. 12mo, Net, $1.25

The volume is a clear record of the naval grand tactics of the war, and their results. The author maintains that in this war, as in past wars, the force of sea power is slowly but surely shaping the issues.

The chapters describing submarine operations and how we fight the U-boats will be of unusual interest to the general reader.

The volume is published with the sanction of the Navy Department and the Department of English at the Naval Academy. There are maps, diagrams, and pictures of ships from old paintings and modern photographs.

THE MERCHANT SEAMAN IN WAR

With a Foreword by Admiral Sir John Jellicoe. 12mo, Net, $1.50

Never before have the eyes of the nations turned so universally to the sea and the men who live upon it. The men of the Merchant Service in this war have founded a new and glorious tradition in the face of undreamed-of peril. They have borne the full brunt of submarine warfare and have waged a fight against an insidious enemy which makes one of the glowing pages in history.

These true records are stories as inspiring as the sea ballads of an earlier day. From official forms, from the reports of men who often have oscillated, wet and starving, between life and death in an open boat for days and nights, who have perhaps themselves been wounded, and who speak with difficulty of what they have done and endured, are reconstructed these strange and moving episodes which reveal the heroic character of the British seaman.

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF THE BRITISH NAVY IN THE WORLD WAR

12mo, Net, $1.00

This account of the work of the British navy, made intelligible to the uninstructed landsman, is a well-deserved tribute to a service which has been insufficiently appreciated. The author describes the magnificent accomplishments of blockading the German fleet, molesting the enemy's coast positions, and controlling his communications with the oceans. He explains the importance of the North Sea and the Mediterranean in the present conflict.

A stimulating and vigorous book, and one which makes the reader take off his hat to the new Glory of the spiritual heirs of Drake and Nelson.

TWO WAR YEARS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Sketches of German and Young Turkish Ethics and Politics.

Translated from the German by E. ALLEN and the Author 12mo, Net, $1.50

"A tremendous indictment of German military methods, a book thrilling with generous indignation," declares the New York Evening Post; coming from the German war correspondent who reported the Dardanelles campaign for one of the most influential papers in Germany, and who had served in the German army earlier in the war.

The author makes the formal statement on oath that he has written this book to relieve his conscience by stating the truth about the things he has seen and experienced in Constantinople as a German correspondent. But, first and foremost, it is the bleeding story of a German's conversion.

By AN EXCHANGED OFFICER

WOUNDED AND A PRISONER OF WAR

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

One of the most engaging, as well as one of the most scathing of war narratives. First, Patient No. 7, Hôpital Civil, Cambrai, then a prisoner at Würzburg, and from Würzburg exchanged to England, this officer writes of his experiences with high literary merit and studious moderation.

He tells of "Tabac-Belge"—cabbage leaf filled with shavings and dust; of the "comically" anti-English papers he was allowed to read, and of German notices, such as "Do not use enemy language. 'Adieu' is French; say instead 'Auf ein Rechtherzigesfrohesbaldigeswiedersehen.'"

SIDELIGHTS ON GERMANY

12mo, Cloth, Net, $1.00

In this volume have been brought together selections from articles which have as their object the portrayal of German life and character as these have been affected or modified under war conditions. In nearly every case the source has been the German newspaper press or well-known and widely circulated German periodicals.

Another important object which this book has in view is to illustrate the gradual change of German war sentiment from the period of easy contempt of their enemies, from the period of frenzied jubilation and confidence in victory which characterized the nation in the early months of the war, to the dawning sense that all was not well, and that Germany was being confronted with the hostility of the civilized world.

In High Altars John Oxenham has written a vivid and poignant series of narratives and impressions of what he saw on his visit to the battlefields of France and Flanders.

THE SECOND BOOK OF ARTEMAS

12mo. Boards. Net, $0.50

THE SECOND BOOK OF ARTEMAS, which brings the humorous picture of the civilian war scene down to date, is, if possible, more amazingly witty and profoundly wise and scathingly cynical than the first.

Wudro appears again, and one Reding. Also the keeper of the victuals, chief larderer. Save butters-in there is no butter in all the land. The peace which Willi expoundeth is indeed the peace that passeth understanding. There is much light on those things which came to pass in the land of Russ. And, too, on wooing a war husband. Harken above all to Artemas in his wisdom on "damsels" doing their bit.

THE LETTERS OF THOMASINA ATKINS, Private (W. A. A. C.), on Active Service

12mo, Net, $1.00

Miss Thomasina, of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, is doing her bit somewhere in France as a simple soldier, leading a soldier's life with all its hardships and privations and hard work, and recording it in letters written home—letters which reveal with humor and force how nobly the women have done their work over there—work often sordid, often menial, almost never picturesque.

There is no limelight shining on them. There are neither footlights nor public. But when the victorious armies return, no corps will better deserve the uncovered heads and the grateful cheers of the crowd than the Thomasina Atkinses of this great war as they march in their place in the line.

THE ESCAPE OF A PRINCESS PAT

The Straight Story of Fifteen Months at the Mercy of the Huns.

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.40

A tale of capture, imprisonment and final escape to Holland, at the third attempt, of a Canadian soldier.

The writer tells of insults that he himself suffered and of things too shocking for exaggeration. He gives recipes of prison camp fare and explains how mail comes through—or doesn't come through.

If this is the most appalling book yet written of the war, it is nevertheless an imperative duty to read an account that so lays the dust of rumor with authentic facts. Letters, reports and newspapers support the testimony.

CAPTURED

Sixteen Months a Prisoner of War. Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

No word came through from this captured soldier for months. The life of the trenches we now well know. Here is a true, vivid and valuable account of what our "missing" soldiers face.

He describes, in no flattering way, the bill of fare in German prison camps, pictures prisoners booed and hissed by the people, tells the things a prisoner needs and how to send them, gives the experiences of prisoners, amusing and otherwise, and an account of the morale of the German people.

MANUAL FOR THE USE OF TROOPS IN AID OF THE CIVIL AUTHORITY

12mo, Net, $1.00

It is of the highest importance that the community shall understand the function of troops in time of public agitation. All persons who, by their presence, give countenance to a riot after being ordered to disperse are principals whether they engage in acts of violence or not. And it is the duty of any person so commanded to aid in establishing order.

Brigadier General Louis L. Babcock is not only one of the leading lawyers of the State of New York, but also has been long connected with its military affairs. For these reasons he is peculiarly well equipped for setting out clearly the law upon this important subject.

THE GREAT CRIME AND ITS MORAL

A Connected Narrative of the Great War. Octavo, Net, $2.00

A volume which is an invaluable library. The documentary literature of the Great War, so vast and so widely scattered as to be quite inaccessible as a whole to any but the professional student, is here gathered into an illuminating digest of its principal features.

The various counts of the indictment of the authors of the Great Crime, as presented by writers, newspapers and official documents of many nations, are vividly set out in the form of a short but connected narrative.

And the work drives home, with horrific force, the question: How will you fare, how will those who come after you fare, when there is no law but the Kaiser's law?

THE GERMAN PIRATE: His Methods and Records

12mo, Net, $0.75

From time immemorial, until the coming of the German submarine, there has existed on the oceans a fine, manly freemasonry, a unique code of courage, honor and chivalry, the noble tradition of the Brotherhood of the Sea.

These accounts of German submarine exploits, set down simply, without unfair comment, are taken from British Admiralty documents and the sworn statements of survivors.

They admit of but one conclusion, and demand to be widely digested. The German submarine commanders have proved by their deeds that they commit crimes from sheer love of cruelty. It cannot be argued that by committing these acts they were performing their work more efficiently.

TRENCH PICTURES FROM FRANCE

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.25

This is a picture of France through the eyes of one of the best-known and best-loved Irishmen of his day. "Willie" Redmond, as he was affectionately called, went to the front in the winter of 1915 and was mentioned in the dispatches of Sir Douglas Haig. One of his last acts was to speak for Home Rule, and the address, delivered in Parliament, is given here in full. "Men wept unabashed," says T. P. O'Connor, "to hear him." Returning to the front he plead to be allowed to lead his men in the Great Push. This was finally granted and he charged at the head of the Irish Division which he founded. He was wounded and died later. His spirit was the life of his men and he looked upon his death as a fresh blood-bond between England and Ireland.

The corresponding volume to this, "Generals of the British Army," has been since its publication a source of information and illustrations to magazines and newspapers throughout the country. THE THUNDERS OF SILENCE By Irvin S. Cobb

Illustrated.

A daring story the like of which has never before been attempted in American fiction. A rebuke to pacifism and un-Americanism—a remedy for some present ills—a specific forbidding recurrence.

THE ALL-HIGHEST GOES TO JERUSALEM:

Being the Diary of the German Emperor's Journey to the Holy Land. From the French by Frank Alvah Dearborn. Illustrated.

This book, suppressed in times of peace, is the weapon of the satirist. The Kaiser must be dethroned from every position—no longer may he be the idol of anyone in a free country—ridicule and exposure are legitimate and effective weapons for the civilian.

THE BOOK OF ARTEMAS:

Concerning men and the things that men did do, at the time when there was war.

There is high speculation as to the identity of the literary genius who here masquerades as the prophet of the war age. It is amazingly witty and hilarious, as it is profoundly wise and scathingly cynical—a full equipment of epigram, proverb, and adapted adage.

MY GERMAN CORRESPONDENCE:

By Professor Douglas W. Johnson, Columbia University

Concerning Germany's responsibility for the war and for the method of its conduct, being an actual letter from a German professor together with a reply and foreword.

This German correspondence is a fascinating historical curiosity, presenting as it does, in the most direct way, the marvelous and grotesque obliquity of the German mind. The correspondents are two professors, one German and one American.

A HERITAGE OF FREEDOM By Matthew Page Andrews

The Political Ideals of the English-speaking Peoples.

Mr. Andrews has found new pages in the history of the English-speaking peoples. The unity of today is founded upon the fact that British and American people spring from the same stock; that cleavages have been few and greatly misrepresented.

SPEAKING OF PRUSSIANS By Irvin S. Cobb

A great message to American people from an eye-witness of the horrors of war—yet he would choose war rather than that the free peoples of the world be brought into Prussian bondage.

An exposé of the madness of the German war-lord and the madness of the philosophy of the German people.

EFFICIENCY: A Play in One Act

By Robert H. Davis and Perley Poore Sheehan

With Appreciation by Theodore Roosevelt. Illustrated.

Irvin Cobb says: "In concrete form it embodies the greatest lesson which mankind is going to learn from this war—that flesh-and-blood are worth more to this world than blood-and-iron, and that in the end, flesh-and-blood must triumph over the king-made mechanism of absolutism and ruthlessness."

ROUGH RHYMES OF A PADRE By Woodbine Willie, M.C., C.S.

Padre is Tommy Atkins' familiar name for the chaplain. This padre, by common consent of the boys, is not a "solemn bloke"—to him "Gawd" is as human as any man in the trenches. Woodbine Willie justifies God's ways to man and, sans Theology, gives the men a religion of the real brotherhood of man.

THE CHALLENGE OF THE PRESENT CRISIS By Harry Emerson Fosdick

A spiritual message, by a writer whose books have sold into the hundreds of thousands, for all those who are struggling to see their way and to keep their souls alive in this terrific generation.

In what mood shall a Christian, or for that matter an idealist of any kind, face the catastrophe of today? With what considerations and insights can he support his faith and hope? And how can he harmonize his ideals with the necessities of action in time of war? The morale of our people critically depends upon their answer to such questions. This volume inspiringly meets the situation as a challenge to our strength.

YOUR BOYS By Gipsy Smith

"I love the common sense of Gypsy Smith's buzzy little book." So writes the Bishop of London.

A revelation of what the boys are thinking and feeling when they go into action. It is a dramatic story of what real religion means to them out there—not preaching, not dogma, but the practical kind that finds expression in the friendly ministrations that are the daily and homely needs of the fighting lines.

THE PRETTY LADY

12mo, Net, $1.50

In this novel Arnold Bennett entirely forsakes the Five Towns, and deals with London—and the West End of London—during the War. The Novel, which is full of war pictures of certain aspects of social life at home, opens in the autumn of 1914; its action extends over a period of nearly three years. One of the two heroines is a young Englishwoman moving in the most modern fashionable circles, whose striking face is a regular feature of the illustrated weeklies. The hero is a rich bachelor of fifty, who up to the great catastrophe has devoted himself to pleasure and to the dilettantism of the arts.

The story shows a mysterious and slow working of conscience in three individuals under the strain of the war. It is at once romantic, dramatic and strictly realistic. A supernatural element is present in it. The method differs from the author's best known serious works, being written in a series of short, rapid scenes, and depending for its varied picturesque effects rather on impressionism than on vast accumulations of detail. The book marks a striking new step in the author's art.

THE VANISHED HELGA

12mo, Net, $1.5

A strong, unconventional story, a highly novel theme, and a distinctio of style which will be a rich pleasure to those on the lookout for fir things, mark this as one of the outstanding novels of the year.

It is the story, most convincingly and realistically told, of a cosmopol tan woman of wealth whose heart had never been touched—and of i romantic momentary yielding, and at length, after much has come t pass, of its final surrender, even against her own determination. Th story's ending is decidedly unusual.

There is no parade of passion, no melodrama; but balance and powe A very high order of intelligence at work combined with a gift for mak ing her characters of pronounced popular human interest.

GOD'S COUNTERPOINT

12mo, Net, $1.50

"God's Counterpoint" represents Mr. Beresford at his best—a best which has not been surpassed even in the trilogy of "Jacob Stahl." As an interpreter of human thought and emotion, a chronicler of the adventures of the mind, J. D. Beresford stands as one of the foremost of modern novelists.

The study in abnormal psychology presented by Philip Maning is a dramatic presentation of profound truth; but the abnormal is not for one moment allowed to furnish more than a contrast giving point and vividness to the superb normality of the author's outlook on life. "God's Counterpoint" is in no sense didactic—save as life itself takes on meaning to the observant eye. It is the story of a man warped by his early training—a training even now all too prevalent—until his servitude to false ideals of love and purity can be broken only by the most drastic experience.

W. E. FORD: A BIOGRAPHY

The Story of a Man Who Lived Before His Time. 12mo, Net, $1.35

Here is a book which, in the form of a most engaging, romantic biography of a hypothetical character, develops a theory of modern education that is startlingly revolutionary and of particular significance at the present time. In no less a city than New York the educational system recently played a vital part in the contest for the mayoralty.

On all sides one gets word of new adventures in educational method. It is a universal problem, and "W. E. Ford," his philosophy and his romance, ought to be known to every person in any way connected with, or interested in, teaching.

THE BLUE GERM

12mo, Net, $1.50

When two scientists after years of experiment succeed in discovering a germ which has power successfully to combat old age and disease, and introduce the new bacillus into the water supply of a great city—what will be the effect? The train of consequences which these would-be benefiters of humanity set in motion leads to strange results.

Here is a book which not only presents a fascinating scientific problem in strange but convincing fashion, but also shows a deep knowledge of the needs and reactions of human nature—a book which first rivets the attention on its series of unexpected events, and then leaves the reader with the thoughtful sense that humanity, after all, is not lightly to be tampered with.

THE ISLAND MYSTERY

12mo, Net, $1.5(

The lightning that strikes twice in the same place is seldom given to a author. Mr. Birmingham, however, has indeed done another and an ever better book, pure "Spanish Gold," in this jolliest of yarns about a cave honeycombed island in the Aegean Sea, an island containing cisterns and cisterns of petrol wanted by the Kaiser for his submarines.

About the daughter of an American millionaire with a fancy for being a real queen. About a genial and unscrupulous island sovereign with a hilarious gift for talking English slang. About a polyglot Swiss who has been in the secret service in many countries, and a vivacious chorus of picturesque islanders.

"Do you want to hear a wounded man chuckle? Give him 'The Island Mystery' and linger (and hold your tongue) till he gets into it."—London Illustrated News.

AN AUTUMN SOWING

12mo, Net, $1.35

Sir Thomas Keeling, the hard man of affairs, apparently invulnerable to sentiment, fell in love with his secretary. The situation thus stated appears a familiar one to readers of romance. But Mr. Benson loses no time in demonstrating what an expert can do with a familiar theme.

His characters, few in number, are described with all this author's extraordinary skill. Norah Prophet is quite charming enough to justify poor Thomas Keeling's awakening to the drabness of his success, and by a delicate piece of analysis Mr. Benson traces her own progress from contempt to love.

THE SOUL OF SUSAN YELLAM

12mo, Net, $1.50

All those who have wished that Mr. Vachell would write another book just like "Fishpingle" or "Quinneys'," only different, have their wish. Here even appears again that thoroughly Vachellian character, Mr. Fishpingle, sometime butler to Sir Geoffrey Pomfret, now bailiff at the Home Farm.

Fancy was the "finical" name, according to Mrs. Yellam, of this particular Vicarage parlormaid, Fancy Bloomfield; and, in the eyes of the same august authority, she was "spindling"; but she made a powerful appeal to that personage's son, one Alferd, a carrier, who kept pace with the times by adopting a motor bus. And then—Old England takes the field. War novels cannot, as a rule, be termed delightful, but there is no other word for this one.

A story which does not disguise the sorrows and hardships of today, but shows the sunshine breaking through them. The pathos of the book—and it is very true—is agreeably lightened by delightfully humorous touches.

COLETTE BAUDOCHE: The Story of a Young Girl of Metz

Translated by Frances Wilson Huard. 12mo, Net, $1.35

The loyalty to France of the "lost provinces" of Alsace-Lorraine even under the cruel heel of German spite is a tradition of the French race. Just how deeply rooted in the fibre of the Alsatians is this devotion can be seen in this tender, memorable story of the great French writer, Maurice Barrès.

Here in the three figures of his story, M. Barrès has uncovered the fundamental impossibility of blending French and German culture.

This publication will bring to American readers a book that has been regarded as a French classic. Mme. Huard's translation is of a piece with all her work, fine in its texture and instinct with the spirit of France.

YELLOW SOULS

12mo, Net, $1.50

An immensely dramatic story bringing us a full realization of a sinister situation in England which we could only faintly comprehend. Otto Friedrich Schultz, later Sir Frederich Schultz, and finally Lord Wellrock, banker, philanthropist, social dictator, is a figure of evil potency to which we have nothing corresponding among the foes within our own household. It is as though Pierpont Morgan served the Kaiser.

Sir Frederich's great ambition is to have a German son by an English wife. And the boy, Frederich, who goes to Eaton and then to Oxford, more than fulfills his father's fondest expectations. The marvelous thoroughness and intricacy of the German undermining of English national fabric here evidently faithfully presented make a plot which before the war would have been thought a masterpiece of invention in a mystery tale.

SECRET BREAD — 12mo, Net, $1.50

One of the most impressive works in English fiction since Arnold Bennett's "The Old Wives' Tale," and a story repeatedly compared to the art of Hardy.

The book has beauty, humor, color, grandeur, a wealth of characters, and a most original and striking situation. The subject is the whole pageant of human emotion. The theme is the history of a Cornish family, its rise and fall and progeniture; a story of the land, of men and women who lived on and by the soil in the days previous to the Crimean War. It is a picture of the passing of the generations; a study in mental development; the life drama of a man. The central idea of the book is the hero's search for spiritual rest; the "secret bread" by which all men live.

The London Times calls it "an ambitious, strong and thoughtful book." The New Statesman (London) says "it has passages almost of greatness." The London Daily Graphic says "a remarkable book throughout." The Brooklyn Eagle says "a novel that is not only strong and unusual, but one that depicts human life as few contemporary novels have done."

THE MANSE AT BARREN ROCKS

12mo, Net, $1.40

A very, very American book, which has the genuine distinction that comes from the plain, unadorned truth simply told. Written in the first person, in a racy and colloquial style, it is a very attractive story of the life of a minister's son in rural West Virginia of some years ago.

The spiritually-minded father, the beautiful, young-hearted mother, a brother and sister and grandmother are all lovable people, of pronounced character. The quaint atmosphere of the hill country is vividly given. There are touching chapters which deal charmingly with the courtship of the girl Margaret.

THE CHIVALRY OF KEITH LEICESTER

12mo, Net, $1.50

The breath of the wide prairies and the rich fields of British Columbia blows across this tale of true love which has some difficulty in finding smooth running.

When Marjorie Colquhoun comes to Portlake she brings a bit of mystery with her which sorely puzzles that imperfectly hardened woman-hater, Keith Leicester. Miss "Coon" does not speak and act like the servant she is supposed to be—and it looks for a while as if she might be a notorious diamond thief. Misunderstandings and cross purposes make things look pretty dark—until Keith and Marjorie make the discovery that chivalry is not dead after all.

ECHOES AND REALITIES

12mo, Net, $1.50

Washington Square, and the abandoned farms of New England hillsides, the concert room, and the corner cupboard, cathedrals, and gay lasses, and thoughts and whims, and a hundred flitting fancies—all these come before us with the veritable echo of reality in these verses by one of our most native of American writers.

Mr. Eaton has a happy human sympathy for "just folks"—and a fine irony withal—and a brave flare of indignation, too. New Englander born and bred, he puts before us with exceptional power the austere beauty of New England towns and homes and the folk who people them. And every little while one finds in his word-pictures a passionate affection for the loveliness of the open spaces whether in the molded lines of the Berkshires or the rugged splendors of Glacier Park.

THE SILVER TRUMPET

12mo, Net, $1.00

We have had many war poems in the last few years, most of them the direct fruit of the soldiers' experiences. Amelia Josephine Burr does something different: she illumines the psychology of those who are left at home, or she concentrates into a few lines poignant bits of drama from the hospitals or the ruined villages of the desolated war zone. Yet her book is by no means wholly sombre: it is stirring with the heroic appeal to sacrifice, and the glory of those who, in losing their souls, find them.

A new volume of bracing verse, breathing a spirit of spirituality and high endeavor—it speaks directly to all who feel the vital need for a return to God and a higher spiritual life.

By DORA SIGERSON

(Mrs. Clement Shorter)

Author of "The Troubadour," "Poems and Ballads," etc.

THE SAD YEARS

With an Introduction by Katherine Tynan. 12mo, Net, $1.25

These poems, written during the present war—"beautiful poetry, essential poetry, always with a passionate emotion to give it wings"—were arranged for publication by the author shortly before her death in January, 1918. The beauty and romance of her absorbing devotion to Ireland which broke her heart, these make of Dora Sigerson one of the rare poetic figures.

The clarity of vision, the bold imagery, the homely nearness to mystical reality which mark the Irish genius at its highest are manifest in these poems. They have simple rhythms, childlike phrases, and the deep rushing feeling of a poet soul broken on the wheel of war. The pure beauty of her work will be one of the lasting things.

By FLORENCE NASH

JUNE DUSK AND OTHER POEMS

12mo, Net, $1.25

This slender sheaf of verses takes its title from Miss Nash's poem which imprisons in passionate lines the memory of a love tragedy. To quote but a fragment of her song:

Love, ev'ry day the dusk re-captures you
And that dim room wherein you sat so still——
Without one movement, save where throbbing pulse
Made your throat's anguish stronger than your will.

Miss Nash finds her themes in a variety of subjects with now and then a poem on the stage and its folk which will be of special interest to those who know her in her chosen work.

SONNETS OF SORROW AND TRIUMPH

12mo, Net, $1.00

This volume of very real, true and living sonnets, by a poet of so many years of splendid achievement, will reach thousands of sorrowing hearts. In these days when the whole world is reaching out eagerly for solace and the strength to bear its anguish—a strength that can rest only on faith—this great message of hope and belief will come as a light in darkness to men and women everywhere.

The theme is a vital and universal experience, and the poems have been wrung from the author's own heart and soul—unlike most intensely emotional long poems, they stand the test of searching criticism.

By ROBERT W. NORWOOD

Author of "The Piper and the Reed," "The Witch of Endor," "His Lady of Sonnets," etc.

THE MODERNISTS

12mo, Net, $1.25

A new volume by a poet who has advanced very rapidly in public recognition. "There is a singing melody and a beauty of diction in Mr. Norwood's work," says the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, "that carry it into the zone of pure poetry. One can imagine the author exclaiming, with Swinburnian enthusiasm: 'Thank God for this beautiful English word!' . . . A poet of distinction."

THE MODERNISTS presents an idea of great interest. The author is Rector of the Memorial Church of St. Paul, at Overbrook, Philadelphia; his former charge was the Memorial Church, London, Ontario, Canada.

CITY TIDES

12mo, Net, $1.25

A new voice in poetry is always a rare and welcome thing—and in Mr. Coates's verse we have ample evidence of the ear attuned to subtle music, the eye of keen poetic vision, and the love for the common things of life, for that reality which is the touchstone of sincerity. In his use of the sharp and sudden anti-climax which is in itself the most telling climax, Mr. Coates is at one with both Rupert Brooke and Edgar Lee Masters—though always with a twist that is wholly his own.

Says Mr. Charles Hanson Towne in the Introduction to this book, "I declare very emphatically that here is an authentic voice; a young man with much to say, who knows how to say it; a maker of free verse who knows the value of pause and tone and stress. And I want to share my delight in him with the lovers of beauty and truth. . . . He is a new poet of the city, wise with a wisdom beyond his years, blest with vision and comprehension."

A CANADIAN TWILIGHT AND OTHER POEMS OF WAR AND PEACE

12mo, Net, $1.25

Bernard Freeman Trotter, Second Lieutenant, Eleventh Leicesters, killed in action in France, May 7th, 1917, gave every promise of becoming one of the leading poets of Canada. His intimates liked to think of him with Rupert Brooke and Alan Seeger—the world will remember him with the other men of letters who gave their lives that we may live.

A BANJO AT ARMAGEDDON

12mo, Net, $1.00

Poetry speaks with its newest voice in the songs of Berton Braley—the George Luks of verse.

His Pipes o' Pan are a street piano, his Daisy Meade a baseball game, his Sir Galahad a police reporter or a traffic "cop."

He has hearty humor, an infectious, courageous cheerfulness that nothing can dampen and an all-pervading humanity. His is the laurel conveyed by the people.

IN CAMP AND TRENCH: Songs of the Fighting Forces

Boards. 12mo, Net, $0.50

If General Pershing should call for poets, as he did for artists, to chronicle in rattling rhyme the heart beats of the American Army, and if the choice rested with the vote of the people, there is no doubt that bard would be Burton Braley—known from coast to coast for the humanity of his songs, and now more than ever the poetry man of the hour, as the Philadelphia North American calls him.

Spice and pep and humor and the "cheer-o" spirit which we all require today fill IN CAMP AND TRENCH. The most democratic of poets sings the most democratic thing ever known, the democratic Army of the Draft, Officers' Training School, and "livin' as fits a Man."

By WOODBINE WILLIE, M. C., C. S.

ROUGH RHYMES OF A PADRE

Boards. 12mo, Net, $0.50

If some Padres are "solemn blokes," not this. "Gawd" to him is as human as any man in the trenches. Here is something altogether new in war poetry. The world has been reawakened to two springs of the immortal spirit. The most profane has turned to a questioning of theology. And thousands, millions, who were intent upon number one are now bound in love of comrades—even to laying down their lives. Woodbine Willie, in the new, homely language of the greatest Democracy earth has seen —that of the dugout, the billet and the firestep—justifies God's ways to man; and celebrates the most disinterested of human passions, the affection of the fighting man for his "mate," his "pal."

A book for every soldier's kit. One that has swept England.

For Young Folk

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE WONDERFUL LAND OF UP

Decorations and Illustrations by Neely McCoy. 8vo, Net, $1.50

Whimsical humor and delicate fancy dance so engagingly through the adventures of Rose and Dick and Jim Dandy, the cat, that the grown-ups will love to read it aloud to the kiddies, and wlil find themselves wafted back to the time when the fairies were very near—and isn't it nice to know that they are called fairies just because they are so fair to everyone?

Did you ever visit the city of Baloonatick, or the place where the runaway feathers fly, or the soap bubble country? No? Then here's your chance to go in the best company, with pictures to show you just what it all really looked like. And if you don't enjoy it nearly as much as the little ones, then you're a hopeless grown-up and we'll have nothing further to do with you.

THE SHINING SHIP, and Other Verse for Children

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.50

These little poems have the rare and beautiful quality of pleasing children and grown-ups, too. The quaint fancies, the delicate humor, and the gay and tender imagination are sure to delight every lover of gracious verse. But there is no "talking down" to the kiddies. Here is a glimpse through loving, whimsical eyes into the child heart, expressed with a sure sense of just the lilting rhythms and the action and imagery which will make the youngsters crow with pleasure.

By LILLIAN ELIZABETH ROY

Author of "The Woodcraft Girls at Camp," "The Little Woodcrafter's Book"

THE WOODCRAFT GIRLS IN THE CITY

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

In this story Mrs. Roy has done what is really a sequel to her earlier books, "Woodcraft Girls at Camp," and "Little Woodcrafter's Book." The younger children who spend the months at the Maine Island Camp are introduced to the reader in "Little Woodcrafters," but the characters completing the circle of Big Lodge boys and girls are here for the first time brought to know one another and their young reader friends.

Mrs. Roy has made this woodcraft field her own. Thoroughly familiar with the ideals and practice of the Woodcraft League and in some sense a spokesman for its young folks, she has woven very delightful tales of fun, adventure, and outdoor prowess into these very popular stories.

THE CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE OF RECONCILIATION

Octavo. Net, $2.00

Writing to his congregation at Edinburgh, Principal Alexander Whyte said of this book:

"By far the best book of the past year is Dr. Denney's 'Christian Doctrine of Reconciliation.' It is by far the best book, in the best world of books. Dr. Denney, while he lived, was by far the foremost theologian in the land, and while we bow to the will of God in this early removal of His greatly talented servant, let us always keep in mind the noble bequest of New Testament divinity he has left behind him: his 'Death of Christ,' his 'Jesus and the Gospel,' and to crown all, his 'Christian Doctrine of Reconciliation.' I cannot tell you, sir, all the expansion and elevation and exhilaration and gospelising of mind and heart that have come to me from my repeated readings of that masterly book. Read it again and again yourself, and then preach its New Testament doctrine all your days. I do not know any modern book that has so much preaching power in it as this book has. And no old book, however powerful and true, will speak to preacher and hearer in our days as Dr. Denney's 'Reconciliation' will speak."

THE DEVELOPMENT OF A CHRISTIAN SOUL

A new edition of The Warp and the Woof. - 12mo, Net, $1.50

"I have rolled up like a weaver my life; He has cut me off from the loom." That is the striking and pathetic figure which the greatest writer in Jewish Literature uses to describe the end of man. But the resemblance goes deeper as we reflect on it. When the weaver seats himself at his loom, the length and breadth of his web are already unchangeably fixed by the warp stretching out before him. Yet that warp he can manipulate by means of the many colored threads of the woof so as to produce a web of rare beauty and high price. He can change the unchangeable according to a pattern in his mind. So may a Christian use and adapt or even master his circumstances, however lowly, and his years though they be few, to the fashioning of a soul after the pattern of Christ.

That is the thought underlying the former title of this book, The Warp and the Woof.

By PROF. ALEXANDER R. GORDON, D.D.

Author of "The Poets of the Old Testament"

THE PROPHETS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT

12mo, Net, $1.50

Of this important book Principal John Skinner of Cambridge, England, writes:

"It is high praise to say of this volume that it fulfills the expectations raised by the author's treatise on the Poets of the Old Testament. The same mastery of critical detail, the same penetrating insight and firmness of judgment, the same luminous and sustained brilliancy of style, which gave distinction to that earlier work, are here displayed in a field which affords even a wider scope for the exercise of these qualities. There is, besides, a fine sense of historical perspective which sets in clear relief the activity of the greater prophets. The treatment is, of course, not exhaustive either of the subject or of the author's power of dealing with it; and students of prophecy will wish that the book were three times as large. But as an introduction to the prophetic literature—scholarly, reliable, and in the best sense popular—there are few books to compare with it; and the reader who has mastered the chapters on Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah and Jeremiah will not have very much more to learn about these prophets. Attention should specially be called to the spirited renderings of characteristic passages, whose smooth and felicitous diction conceals an amount of thought and research which only those who have tried their hand at the task can fully appreciate."

CHRISTIAN IMPERIALISM

12mo, Net, $1.50

We are now entering upon a new and momentous period of our history. The timid, the hare-hearted, the laggards, who ask only that the movement of life's wheels should be accommodated to their own lethargy, will find it a disturbing and even painful epoch, full of shocks to dull intellects and torpid sensibilities; but the bolder spirits will surely find the age to their liking. The author thinks that there is reason to believe that we all will be led to think more soberly of our obligations, viewing them in the light of Imperial destiny and seeing in them a call to higher spiritual endeavor as well as an increase of secular responsibilities.

FUNDAMENTAL DOCTRINES OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH

12mo, Net, $1.40

This book is the result of its author's deep conviction that the great need of the church is the simple emphatic statement and instruction in the fundamental truths of the Christian Faith.

Himself the pastor of one of the largest congregations in America, he found that while his membership was constantly growing there was an earnest call and plea for instruction and help to understand the real basis of Christian Belief. The chapters of this book delivered as sermons but with so great acceptance that in response to many requests from pastors and Chrisitans generally, they are here revised and issued for wider use.

THE HEART OF A SOLDIER

12mo. Net, $1.35

Major Maclean Watt was with the Gordon Highlanders at the Somme and the Ancre, and later with the Black Watch at Ypres. He writes with touching eloquence of the hearts of the soldiers—as one who has shared their sorrows, eaten their bread, and fought their fights.

The Chaplain's job he sums up thus: "In his men's weariness, he must never be weary. In the cold and mire, he must keep their hearts warm. And when the parapets are falling in, he has to show himself unafraid—a quiet witness to the courage of the faith he preaches."

A book to cheer the spirit and warm the heart. One feels that he would ask no stauncher, truer friend at the front than Major Maclean Watt.

GOD AND THE SOLDIER

12mo, Net, $1.25

From a series of discussions among the chaplains in one of the great camps in France grew this vindication of orthodox Christianity as the religion of the fighting men. The attitude of the trenches is that of sharp criticism of traditional positions; they want plain English on the fundamental questions of religion. This book, therefore, faces practical questions, and answers them in non-technical language. It presents a fresh treatment of the old subjects—the responsibility of God for evil, the Atonement, Immortality—in the light of the world-shaking events of the war.

GOD AND THE WAR

Some lessons of the present crisis. 12mo, Net, $1.00

A knowledge of European history is indispensable for an accurate understanding of the Great War. To this must be added a correct conception of the mission and influence of Christianity in Christendom.

These qualifications are shown in this timely volume by Dr. Paterson-Smyth, who first deals with the broad principles of truth and morals and then points out the religious significance of the bloody conflict in a calm and judicious manner.

The twin truths of the sovereignty of God and of the ultimate triumph of righteousness are repeatedly and impressively expounded and endorsed.
